

BRITISH LABOR GOVERNMENT FALLS

EARLY RETURNS SHOW TORIES WIN MAJORITY OF PARLIAMENT SEATS; STANLEY BALDWIN TO BE PREMIER

Liberals Also Fall Behind In Conservative Victory—
MacDonald Wins Seat—Asquith Defeated—
Tories Give Selections.

London, Oct. 30.—(4pm).—At this hour the Tories had rolled up a working majority in the house of commons with 360 seats and were still going strong. Returns so far give the Laborites 129 seats.

The Liberal party was practically wiped out in the general election, having only 34 seats on the strength of present returns.

Apparently the Tories in commons will command twice as many votes as Laborites and Liberals combined.

The Tories gained over 130 seats. Labor lost over 34 and the Liberals lost nearly 100.

London, Oct. 30.—Tory gains continued to mount up as more than half of the 615 constituencies reported at noon today.

At that time, the Tories had won 195 seats, Laborites 85, Liberals 30 and others nine.

London, Oct. 30.—England's conservative party, leader in the first returns from the parliamentary election, continued to gain as additional constituencies reported today, promising the return of a Tory majority and the overthrow of Premier MacDonald's labor cabinet.

The Conservatives carried 165 seats in the early returns, a gain of 58 seats, with losses in but 7 constituencies. The laborites carried 73, a net loss of 15, and the Liberals had carried but 23, a net loss of 36 seats.

The Laborite party, controlling the last parliament through the tacit consent of the Liberals, probably will be the chief opposition in the next session with but slightly reduced strength and with the Liberals the minority party.

Labor lost a number of seats in the Tory victory, although the Liberal reversal was much greater.

Former Premier Asquith, defeated in his stand for a return to parliament, probably will retire as the result of his adverse showing.

Lloyd George probably will succeed to the Liberal leadership.

A disintegration of the Liberal party was foreseen today as a result of the election. It was predicted that some of the Liberals would seek the Laborite standard and some go to the conservative ranks, but Lloyd George will have his chance to try the strength of the party and attempt to lead it back into power.

Despite the heavy women's vote, Lady Astor and Ellen Wilkinson, Laborite candidates were the only two showing victories in the returns thus far. Seventeen other women were defeated for seats.

"The Tory victory shows the British people love their country and their flag, just as an American loves their Stars and Stripes," Lady Astor said, when it was learned that she had been returned from Plymouth.

Premier MacDonald will meet the cabinet tomorrow and is expected to start the inquiry into the Zinoviev note. The Labor leader has decided to carry out and force the Tories to defeat Labor in the house before retiring.

There is some conjecture as to whether Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader, will accept the premiership or turn

INCREASE NOTED IN INSANITY IN OHIO IN HARPER REPORT

Columbus, Oct. 30.—In a preliminary annual report made to Governor Donahay, Welfare Director John E. Harper sets forth the year's activities in his department.

Harper's report shows first that the past year was the most active from a building standpoint in the history of state institutions, and that increased accommodations for both the insane and penal wards of the state have been provided.

The operating expenses of the department totaled $3,105,231.17. This expense showed an increase of about $500 over the previous year. This increase, the report says, is accounted for by the increased population of state institutions.

The daily average inmate population of all institutions under the direction of the welfare department in 1924 was 25,209, or 147 greater than in 1923; the per capita cost was $241.43 in 1924, or $1.21 less than in 1923, or a saving of $30,502.89.

Building activities of the department are indicated by the large expenditures in this line. Building and new equipment cost in 1924 was $3,602,925 as against only $335,654 for the years 1921-22, or a difference of $2,767,271.

The report goes into detail, telling what has been accomplished at each state institution in the building way. A complete report of the efforts to find water for the proposed institution at Grafton is set out, and Director Harper closes this with the statement: "If we are unable to find water in sufficient quantities for such an institution as is proposed at Grafton, we will be forced to declare this farm as being unsuitable for an institution and recommend its sale, because an abundant water supply is absolutely essential to the operation of a state institution."

At the London prison farm, buildings which architects under previous administrations estimated would cost approximately $500,000 have, with the aid of prison labor, been completed at a total cost of less than $300,000, Mr. Harper says.

During the past year, in addition to the new administration building at London, which is occupied now by 600 prisoners, there has been erected and completed at London a new dairy barn, a modern creamery and a complete canning plant, in which a large number of prisoners have been profitably employed most of the past summer.

The profitable utilization of prison labor is shown from the report of the division of manufacturing and sales, whose sales amount to $1,237,682 during the past year, as compared with $1,105,796 the previous year.

Production from state farms, dairies, gardens and orchards for 1924 totaled $586,856.66, as compared with $565,212.44 in 1923.

Director Harper's report shows that the ratio of insane patients to every 100,000 population in Ohio is approximately 214. It adds: "There has been a large increase in insanity, largely due to the foreign element, which emphasizes the great need of even more stringent immigration restrictions. Persons afflicted with dementia praecox comprise about 55 per cent of the inmates of the hospitals for the insane."

Harper said all state hospitals are overcrowded, having a patient population far beyond their capacity, and the condition at the Cleveland state hospital is termed "appalling."

Father Follows Girl to Suicide's Grave

MISS MARLOWE CHAMBERS

Brooding over the diary of his sixteen-year-old daughter, beautiful Marlowe Chambers, who two weeks before had ended her life with a bullet, led her father, Frank Ross Chambers, Jr., to kill himself in the same manner in San Mateo, Cal. Chambers was the son of one of the world's largest clothing manufacturers, was a Cornell graduate and a fine engineer. He divorced his first wife because she refused to live in the West, and left a nineteen-year-old widow when he died. The girl's diary revealed that she was a narcotic addict, and this is believed to have caused her father's

ORGANIZE PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSED NILES KLAN PARADE

Niles, O., Oct. 30.—Clyde W. Osborne, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Ohio, issued an order from his office in Columbus that klansmen, who plan to parade here Saturday, must march unmasked.

Osborne declared his order was statewide. Another order forbids robed klansmen acting as traffic officers during a parade.

Osborne's order followed the bombing of the home of Mayor Harvey C. Kistler of Niles. None of the occupants was injured. Those responsible for the bombing escaped. The bombing of Kistler's home followed a conference he had called between Klan and anti-Klan forces in an effort to prevent threatened trouble when the rival organizations meet here Saturday. Efforts to agree on a plan of peace failed.

Sheriff Thomas of Trumbull county stated he would not ask for outside aid, but would depend on deputizing enough special officers to handle the situation.

At the governor's office, in Columbus, it was said the investigation by state representatives would be an independent one, and that the investigators had been instructed not to reveal their identity to the Niles officials.

Meanwhile, citizens of Niles started to organize a protest against the proposed Klan parade. They will center their efforts upon Mayor Kistler in an effort to get him to rescind the permit for the procession, which he granted last week. Efforts to get Osborne, grand dragon of the Klan in Ohio, to call off the Niles celebration met with no result. Osborne said he had no authority to call off the celebration.

Reports that Niles officials had asked for troops and for aid from surrounding cities were denied, both at that city and in other places. At Youngstown notice was served on city officials that any attempt to send policemen to Niles would bring legal action to prevent it.

It was indicated at Columbus that no troops would be sent unless actual violence occurs. To do so would be against the long-established policy of the state, it was pointed out, and would establish a serious precedent.

DEEPEST SPOT UNDER WATER IS IN PACIFIC

Washington, Oct. 30.—The United States geological survey announced that the deepest place yet located in any ocean has just been sounded in the Pacific 50 miles off the Japanese coast. A Japanese man-of-war, the Manchu, made the soundings, to a depth of 32,644 feet, or more than 6 1/2 miles, without touching bottom. How much deeper the ocean bed lies could not be determined because the sounding wire carried by the ship was not long enough. The greatest depth previously recorded was off the coast of Mindanao, Philippine islands, where bottom was reached at 22,113 feet.

SUITS TO SHOW IF PUBLICATION OF TAX IS LEGAL

Stone Asks District Attorneys to Bring Charges
In Their Vicinity

Attorney General Will Select Test Cases—More Than One to be Filed

Washington, Oct. 30.—Attorney General Stone announced today that he had asked "several" United States attorneys to present suitable charges against newspapers within their jurisdictions charging publication of income tax lists in violation of the law.

"It is quite possible that more than one case will be filed against newspapers," Stone declared.

The attorney general said that from reports received from U. S. attorneys he would select the test cases to be tried.

The department of justice desires that a case be selected which is most representative of all phases of the alleged violation. It was pointed out that several large newspapers published the income tax lists along with a statement that the bureau of internal revenue had issued a warning that to do so was apparently in violation of the law.

Publication under these circumstances, it was stated, made the publication deliberately against the advice of the authorities.

Stone said he had not asked all of the U. S. district attorneys to submit reports on cases they might be able to bring against newspapers. However, he declined to say which district attorneys were requested to institute investigations.

It was pointed out that no action would be filed by United States attorneys without a specific order from the attorney general.

The department of justice considers it highly unlikely that any proceedings will be started before the election, nothing to do with the delay in action next Tuesday. Officials added that the proximity of the election has, but that it will require some time for the United States attorneys to furnish the facts to other attorney general.

ACCIDENT AT SOUTH CHARLESTON KILLS MAN KNOWN IN XENIA

Charles Russell, 40, Boston, Mass., who had charge of the merry-go-round and Ferris wheel concessions at the Elk's Exposition and Trade Show in the Dodge Addition last week, died at Springfield City Hospital, Wednesday night at 10:10, as the result of a skull fracture, sustained when he was struck by a falling beam at South Charleston, Wednesday afternoon.

His wife, Mrs. May Russell, who has been staying at the Frances Inn, this city, for the past week, was at his bedside when he died, but Russell never regained consciousness. Mrs. Russell had remained in this city, waiting until her husband had completed his South Charleston engagement when he would join her here. When she did not hear from him Wednesday, she called South Charleston and got in touch with a physician there who told her of her husband's accident. She hurried to Springfield before her husband died.

Russell, who owned the Ferris wheel and merry-go-round, had operated the devices here last week and moved them to South Charleston for the carnival. While dissembling the wheel Wednesday afternoon, he was struck by a piece of iron, causing a skull fracture. The snapping of a cable let the beam drop on him. Two men aiding him leaped to safety.

Russell was given first aid by Dr. Harry Milligan, South Charleston and rushed to the Springfield hospital in an ambulance.

Russell gained many friends in this city and was taken into the local order of Elks before leaving the city. Mrs. Russell returned to this city from Springfield and will store the remainder of her goods and return to her home in Boston with her husband's body. John Fuerle, of the Xenia lodge, went to Springfield Thursday to make funeral arrangements.

Russell was born in Italy.

Plant Closed.

Toledo, Oct. 30.—The Alexander Black Cloak company here closed its plant and the management announced that plans for the future were indefinite. The company is one of the oldest in Ohio, having been organized in 1861. It employed between 200 and 300 workers since the reorganization in 1923.

Railroad Sold.

Denver, Oct. 30.—The Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad was sold under the auctioneer's hammer for $17,335,700. Representatives of the Kuhn-Loeb company and the Equitable Trust company of New York were the only bidders.

Gore May Succeed Secretary Wallace

HOWARD M. GORE

It is reported in Washington that Howard M. Gore, of West Virginia, will be named to succeed the late Henry C. Wallace as Secretary of Agriculture in President Coolidge's Cabinet.

INHERITANCE TAX HIT BY DECISION

Toledo, Oct. 30.—Judge O'Brien O'Donnell overruled the state tax commission when he held that the Otis A. Browning estate need not pay inheritance tax on a request to establish the O. A. Browning Masonic Memorial home. The state tax commission attempted to collect the inheritance tax on the ground that the home will be for aged Master Masons, their widows and orphans and superannuated ministers. This limitation placed it outside the legal exemption on bequests for public charity, the commission asserted. Judge O'Donnell ruled, however, that the money set aside in trust in Mr. Browning's will to provide for the home is a "public charity," in that while it will provide for a special class of persons, it will lighten the burden which might otherwise fall upon the public. All charitable institutions fall into special classes, the judge pointed out, calling attention to the care given soldiers and sailors, the deaf and dumb, the blind, the feeble-minded and others.

Shooting Affray.

Ashland, Ky., Oct. 30.—William Lambert, farmer, living near Naples in Greenup county, was shot and killed, and Herbert Welsh, a young man, is in the hospital here charged with the shooting. Fred Rice, a negro boy, is held in the county jail charged with complicity in the affair. Lambert was shot four times and died almost instantly, while Welsh has nine bullet holes in his body, all flesh wounds. Rice was shot in the scalp and slightly wounded.

INVESTMENTS OF AMERICANS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES WILL REACH TEN MILLION SOON

Washington, Oct. 30.—Increased by over a billion dollars already this year, American investments in foreign countries by the close of 1924 will total nearly $10,000,000,000.

This estimate was fixed today by department of commerce officials in connection with the issue of the official year book for 1923. On the tremendous investment, it was unofficially said that the government and private bankers holding foreign obligations obtain a return of probably over a million dollars annually.

Compared to America's ten million abroad, foreign countries have something over three billion dollars in this country, according to official tabulations.

Among the principal American investments abroad this year have been the $150,000,000 Japanese loan, $110,000,000 to Germany and $30,000,000 to Sweden. A big loan to France is contemplated.

The interest on American capital invested abroad now exceeds by a considerable amount the interest we owe on account of foreign capital invested here," the department of commerce announced.

That is a reverse of the condition before the war.

The government's return from its "foreign investments," the war debts of the allies is expected to reach nearly $170,000,000 this year on the already funded foreign obligations. Apparently there is no immediate prospect of a settlement of the unfunded debts of France, Italy and Belgium.

While in 1923, there was an increased flow of foreign capital to the U. S., explainable by the greater safety of investment in this country, this year's figures disclose that a considerably

MAN HELD FOR MURDER OF WIFE IS FOUND A SUICIDE IN JAIL CELL

Body of Wife Discovered In Abandoned Mine Shaft—
Husband Arrested, Hangs Himself In Jail By
His Suspenders

Belvidere, N. J., Oct. 30.—Frank Thomas, railroad worker, held in jail here as a material witness in the murder of his wife, Grace, whose nude body was found in an abandoned mine shaft near here, committed suicide in his jail cell here sometime during the night, by hanging himself to a bar of his cell. He was found dead today.

Thomas had been placed under arrest following the discovery of his wife's body and all her belongings in the pit. He denied any knowledge of her slayer, contending she left home several days before the body was found. He said he returned to the house last Sunday night and found a window shattered, furniture in disorder and blood spots on the floor.

The mine pit is 14 miles from the Thomas home and police worked on the theory that the slayer or slayers might have taken the woman's body there in an automobile.

Thomas, however, did not own a car and, so far as could be ascertained, could not even drive one.

When Warden Smith visited Thomas' cell at six a.m., he found the prisoner lying on the floor, his head and shoulders held by a noose in his suspenders knotted about his neck.

County Physician Cummins, summoned to the jail, said Thomas probably had been dead about six hours.

Warden Smith said he visited the cell about 9 o'clock last night and talked with Thomas, who was smoking a cigarette and appeared to be cheerful.

Thomas apparently had tied the knot about his neck at the other end of the suspenders to the bar and then had lain down, allowing the noose to strangle him.

CHARGES MADE BY BOULAY DENIED BY NEAL STATEMENT

Demands Evidence Be Turned Over to County
Prosecutors

Columbus, Oct. 30.—Clarence J. Neal, Republican state chairman, made a demand that Governor Donahay order Highway Director L. A. Boulay to turn over immediately to county prosecutors evidence he claims to have that road contractors have been solicited for funds for the Harry L. Davis campaign.

"A week ago Mr. Boulay made such a charge, and we stated then that any such solicitors were impostors and represented neither Harry L. Davis, the campaign committee, nor anyone in any way identified with the Republican campaign," said Neal. "Recently Boulay charged such solicitations were being made under the guise of subscriptions to a fictitious Davis publication called 'Who's Who in Ohio,' so no report of the contribution would have to be made. He charged that these solicitors had promised contributors would not have to be low bidders to get contracts from the next Republican administration. Repeatedly Mr. Boulay since has made similar charges, asserting now solicitations were for subscriptions to a Cleveland paper, so as not to be reported as contributed to Davis' campaign."

"It is high time that such methods were stopped, both on the part of any such impostors and those responsible for the Democratic campaign. We reiterate that all such solicitations are without authority. If Donahay or Boulay have evidence that such solicitations from road contractors are being made, they have knowledge of a criminal act for any such individuals representing themselves as authorized when they are not, subject themselves to the law against obtaining money under false pretences."

William Griffin of New York, vice president of the American Press association, told the committee that he failed in an effort to sell the Republican national committee a $200,000 advertising campaign to be conducted in the doubtful western states. Another firm got the contract, Griffin said.

Gilson Gardner, Washington newspaper man, testified that theatrical publicity was offered La Follette forces for $50,000 and was refused. He said a representative of the McGutcheon-Gurston syndicate, a subsidiary of the Shubert Theatrical company, had told him his company was prepared "to sell political publicity and would rather give it to La Follette than to the other two parties."

Gardner said he was told that for $50,000 the syndicate would "have cracks and gags" favorable to La Follette in vaudeville acts, would put on various stunts and would give the independent candidate publicity in the movies. The offer was refused, he said.

H. L. Brunson, representing William L. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, said he had collected $120,000 from the trade unions for the La Follette-Wheeler campaign fund, and that he was paid $125 a week and expenses for his services.

Henry L. Rahm, a union official of Lawrence, Mass., testified that he was offered $22 a day and expenses by H. T. Drew, a Coolidge supporter, to take the stump for the Coolidge-Dawes ticket. Rahm said that he turned down the offer, but that one of his neighbors, E. O. Brown, accepted it.

Waldo said in reply to questions by Counsel Walsh that he had arranged with Al Johnson to get the group of actors together.

"And did he show you the songs that he was going to sing and make Cal laugh out loud?" asked Walsh. "Yes."

Waldo denied that he had arranged for the white house breakfast party through the Shuberts, theatrical producers. He insisted that it was not unusual to get up such parties to call on political candidates.

The witness said that he had collected $15,500 for the Coolidge Non-partisan league, which was maintaining headquarters in New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 30.—Peter Veregin, head of the Doukhobor colony in British Columbia, and five others with Veregin, were killed by a bomb on board a train en route from Nelson to Vancouver. Eleven persons were injured.

Another victim was John Mackie, Grand Forks, B. C., one of the most prominent men in central British Columbia.

Veregin's leadership of his colony of 7,000 Russians has often been challenged and it was believed the bomb was directed against him. Veregin was 70 years old. He came to Canada 20 years ago. His adherents were religious fanatics.

MRS. LAURA LACKEY DIES WEDNESDAY AT HOME OF SON HERE

Mrs. Laura Sellers Lackey, 76, widow of Enos Ellsworth Lackey, passed away at the home of her son, Dr. Burt L. Lackey, on Home Avenue, Wednesday night at 9 o'clock. Death was caused by a complication of diseases, from which she had been ill for several months.

Mrs. Lackey was the daughter of Ferdinand and Rebecca Hornell Sellers and was born in Warren County, March 20, 1848. Her marriage to Dr. Lackey took place September 26, 1867. Three sons were born to the union two of whom, Walter V. Lackey, of New Burlington and Dr. B. L. Lackey of this city, survive. Another son, Raymond L. Lackey, died seventeen years ago.

Mrs. Lackey died January 9, 1903. Mrs. Lackey resided most of her life in Warren and Clinton Counties, most of that time in New Burlington, but came to Xenia in 1903, after the death of her husband.

Three brothers, the Rev. O. M. Sellers, West Milton, O.; Wilbur S. Sellers, Springfield; Harry H. Sellers, Glendora, Calif., and one sister, Miss Adda Sellers, Springfield also survive. Another brother, Charles Sellers of Springfield, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Lucas, of Xenia preceded Mrs. Lackey in death.

Mrs. Lackey was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New Burlington, later affiliating with the First M. E. Church, this city. She had been ill since early summer and in July went to the home of her son, Dr. B. L. Lackey, where she was cared for.

Funeral services will be held at the Lackey home, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at the New Burlington M. E. Church at 2 o'clock. Friends may call Friday afternoon and evening. Interment will be made in New Burlington Cemetery.

RED CROSS WORKERS MEET IN TOWNSHIPS

Mrs. Charles L. Bales, County Red Cross Roll Call Chairman and Miss Louise B. Shaffer, secretary, met Wednesday afternoon with the Roll Call workers in Jefferson Township. They gave statistics of the work of the county Red Cross during the past year, particularly among school children.

In the evening a meeting of the New Jasper workers was held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Bickett. One family in New Jasper Township with a number of children was given material relief last winter and medical care arranged for one member of the family last year. Three crippled children in the township were offered clinic care. Several other families were given special attention. Posters of the Eighth Red Cross Roll Call will be distributed this week, according to the plans of the chairman, Mrs. Bales.

Missing Girls Found.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture
BERNARR MACFADDEN

There is nothing that strikes quite so much terror to the soul of a young mother as to see her baby go into convulsions. The condition is generally due to overfeeding, although a very small percentage of cases may, perhaps, be due to improper feeding, underfeeding, constipation, impure air or water, or lack of exercise.

Whatever the cause, the first thing to be done is to put the child in a hot tub. Then try to induce vomiting. Hold the child face downward. Put your finger down its throat, and thus force the stomach to empty itself. Next, raise the windows as high as you can; pure, fresh air contains the oxygen necessary to life. A child may die for want of oxygen and the energy secured from it. Keep the child warm. Use hot-water bottles, clothing, or whatever may be necessary.

The hot abdominal pack should next be used. Hold an ordinary bath-towel by its two ends. Immerse as much of the towel as possible in boiling water. Wring it as dry as you can, and then, after folding it into the proper size and shape, wrap it, hot and moist, all the way around the child's little body from hips to arm-pits, next the skin.

Be careful not to burn the child, but apply the towel as hot as can be borne. In case of fever, a cold towel wrap around the child's little body from hips to armpits will usually induce such profuse perspiration that the body temperature will be quickly reduced.

A hot-water bottle to the back will increase or prolong the efficiency of either a hot abdominal or spinal pack. If a small amount of hot water is put into a hot-water bag, the child can lie on it advantageously.

Preceding the hot pack a high enema should be given, using the smallest size of rectal tube, which should be freely oiled or greased. This will be found valuable in helping to cleanse the lower bowel. Then let the child rest. Too much treatment, or incessant coddling or handling by interfering with rest, may cause death.

When the doctor comes your efforts in meeting the emergencies will usually be commended, if he understands that you prefer to avoid medicines in treating your child.

PASTOR HONORED BY KNIGHTS AT AFFAIR WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Rev. Father David Powers, pastor of St. Brigid's Catholic Church, was honor guest at an informal reception arranged in his honor by Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus in the council rooms Wednesday evening.

The Rev. Father Edward McGinty, pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Jamestown, was also a guest at the affair, which was attended by more than sixty Knights. Following an informal reception in the lounge, eucher was played, John Leahey winning the score prize.

Luncheon followed cards, after which C. E. O'Brien, acting for Grand Knight Henry Walsh who is out of the city, presented each of the priests with a gift and promised the Xenia pastor the hearty support and cooperation of the Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. Father Powers, in responding, reviewed the work of the Knights of Columbus during the war, telling of the sacrifices made by priest chaplains and K. of C. secretaries, but urged the Knights to forget their war time activities now and turn their attention to future accomplishments and not to rest on past laurels.

Among these duties the pastor enumerated an interest in the graduates of the parochial high school. The pastor also referred to the recent purchase of the property of Mrs. Mary Bain on West Main Street, to be used as a home for Sisters of Charity teaching in the parochial schools, and said he had hoped to announce the purchase as a surprise at the meeting had it not been given publicity before. He thanked the Knights for their offer of cooperation in closing his remarks.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Reasons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

What is to be said for and against investing in radio corporation stocks?

The problem of whether or not to invest in radio stocks is much the same problem as that of investing in any other new industry which looks as though it would assume tremendous proportions.

In any such industry, huge profits are reaped and huge losses are incurred. This is true because the essential element of risk is very high. It is especially high in radio because a new series of inventions may come out at any time which will wholly antedate any present equipment and which can be sold for much less than present equipment.

If a man buys radio stock he is hardly to be classed as an investor.

Mother of three children tells experience with "Mother's Friend."

"I USED 'Mother's Friend' before my last baby came," says Mrs. McCormick, Liberty St., Pontiac, Mich., "and brought him with very little discomfort. I am the mother of three children but I never had such an easy time with the other two. I recommend 'Mother's Friend' to all expectant mothers."

but rather as a speculator. Speculators are ready to take great risks for large profits, and if you are among this class buy radio stock, because there is enough risk in it to give a hardened speculator a flutter. Of course, every effort to analyze the stock should be made, even by the speculator.

OF ESPECIAL INTEREST JUST NOW

There is nothing in the political machinery of any government elsewhere that is so curiously complicated as our system of electing Presidents. As it was first devised this scheme made no allowance at all for the rise of political parties, with their leaders and candidates. It was not put to the test in the two elections that made Washington President, nor in that of 1796 that elected John Adams. But in the election of 1800, it happened that Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr each received seventy-three electoral votes, these two men being foremost leaders of the new popular party that was opposing the conservative Federalists who were then in power. John Adams received sixty-five votes as a candidate for a second term, while sixty-four votes were cast for Mr. Pinckney, who was a Senator from South Carolina, and also a Federalist, with a single electoral vote for Mr. Jay, who was then Governor of the State of New York. Under the Constitution as it then stood, the presidential electors, meeting in their respective States, were required to vote for two names, having in mind the offices of President and Vice-President but not assigning their selections to either of these offices. The electoral votes were transmitted to Congress, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes was declared President, while the one standing next in the list was Vice-President. This plan seemed so reasonable in theory that its inventors were confident it would work well in practice.

There were only 138 electoral votes altogether in the year 1800, so that Jefferson and Burr each had received a clear majority and it became necessary for the House of Representatives to designate one of them as President and the other as Vice-President. The House that had the decision to make had been elected in 1798 and was strongly Federalist. In this particular case, the party of Jefferson and Burr had decisively won the Presidential election, and the House had only to take the two candidates of that party and decide which of them should have the Presidency. There were fifteen States represented in the House and each State delegation had to act as a unit in making the choice. Eight states preferred Jefferson and six voted for Burr (one seems to have been a tie). Thus Jefferson became President and Burr became Vice-President. It had by this time become evident that each Presidential elector ought to have had the power to designate one man for President and another man for Vice-President, rather than to send two names up to Congress without expressing preference for either.

Accordingly, the Constitution was amended in time to remedy this defect before the election of 1804. For 120 years, we have been choosing Presidents under the terms of the amendment that was proposed to the legislatures of the States by the English Congress on December 12, 1803, and that was declared to have been duly ratified in a proclamation issued by Secretary of State James Madison on September 25, 1804.

The Twelfth Amendment, thus adopted and made applicable to the election of 1804, did not change the plan of choosing a President through the mechanism of an electoral college. It left the electoral system as provided in the original Constitution of 1787. But it required the electors to "name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President."—Albert Shaw.

I HAVE MY LIFE TO LIVE

"I have my life to live," he said,
"These are my days and weeks and years;
That is my future, just ahead,
Why should I care who grieves or sneers?
Why should I pause, when pleasure bent,

Because another bids me stay?
I have my right to merriment;
Why should I care what others say?

"I do not ask that they incline
Their lives to fit my little plan;
Why should they seek to fashion mine
And hinder me when'er they can?

Said I: "I hold within my hand
A stone which is my right to throw;
I have the strength to fling it, and
It pleases me to let it go.

"It strikes my mother in the face!
It stuns my father standing there!
Would you get up and plead my case?
And argue that my deed was fair?

"That life of yours, you proudly boast,
If lived to suit your whims alone,
Will injure those who love you most
Far more than any careless stone.

"When pleasure leads you to disgrace,
And head-long into shame you go,
You strike your mother in the face,
And stun your father with the blow."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

Since that is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

A Useful Article for the Traveler: This was made with a pair of scissors in a sheath (or leather case) which reached to the nickel rings at the top of the scissors (where the thumb and fingers go through). The leather case had been ingeniously covered with dark blue velvet and a square crosspiece of dark blue velvet stiffened with pasteboard, had been

Here are some of the new fancy-work articles I have recently seen in city shops, any of which can be made without a pattern or model.

A Doll Sewing Case: This would be an excellent present for a child. It is made with a real doll, one of the tall, cloth-body type with china head six inches from head to feet. The doll's petticoats are needle-and-pin holders. Its outer dress contains two pockets, one holding a thimble and the other holding a small tape measure. Between its two hands is run a strong piece of tape on which are suspended two spools of sewing cotton (one black spool, and one white). A pair of small scissors slips into a loop on the shoulders. In the back, Dolly is supposed to sit up against the wall on a table, or against the mirror on one's dresser.

Extra Bonnet Strings for an Infant: This would be a splendid gift for the mother of a small child. Every mother finds it a problem to keep her baby's

Today's Talks

WHAT DOES TODAY MEAN?
In the first place, today means what you did yesterday. It means the accumulation of all yesterdays. It means that the only failure possible is the failure within your own heart.
Do your work this day better than you have ever done it and you will not only be bigger in every way, but very much wiser.
It takes some people so long to learn the simple truth that the more you know the better and more efficient you work and the happier you are.

If you stand still today then the best of yesterday is partly wiped out, must have momentum.
One of the most inspiring characters that ever lived in America was Charles P. Steinmetz. He was a cripple. He weighed hardly more than a hundred pounds. Yet when he was one of the world's recognized geniuses and drew a salary alone of over a hundred thousand dollars a year.

Steinmetz was a remarkable man being, taking an interest in the welfare and happiness of all those about him. He was a hard worker. He got his education and thrills out of his work. He believed that today was a gold mine in which every human being had a right to work as a privileged character.

He worked his way through college. He sold books. He invented scores of devices and discovered dozens of new ways of revealing the wonders of this world to people. He was honored by many great institutions and was loved and admired around the globe.

Seemingly Steinmetz had everything against him—excepting himself and today. He took the two, however, and with them made this a better world in which to live.

Today will never come around again.

BALLANTYNE PUTS GRIDDERS THROUGH PRACTICE FOR TROY

Coach John Ballantyne is putting his Central High School gridders through the stiffest practice sessions of the season this week in anticipation of one of the hardest games of the season Friday afternoon, when Troy High School is met at Cox Memorial Field. The gridders, themselves sensing the first victory of the season Friday, led by Captain Allen Zell, are tearing into the poor scrubs with renewed vigor and should be in fine shape for the Troy fray.

Several of the first string players, including Boxwell, Holton, and Scurry, have entirely recovered from their injuries, and all are in the best physical shape for the Friday combat, with the exception of Captain Zell, who although just recovered from an affected foot, had his shoulder injured in practice, but is expected to start the Troy game at his old position at left half.

With Scurry, the big colored full back into the game in old time form, entirely recuperated from a twisted ankle, the offense and defense of the eleven will be materially strengthened.

Troy is somewhat of an unknown football quantity this year, but after losing early games has come back strong in the past few contests and expects to hand another set back to the local team.

In Eyer, left half, Troy has its one big asset, both on offense and defense, as this lad is a triple threat man, and can run, pass, or kick, with equal success. It was Eyer that almost one-handed enabled Troy to defeat Tippecanoe City last week, by a large score, and the locals are practicing with the one idea of stopping this fast half and preventing him from getting into the clear for one of the long runs for which he is noted.

In other ways, Troy does not promise to be much of a threat, as the team was hit hard by graduation last spring, and has had difficulty in getting on a winning stride this season.

Coach Ballantyne, is not taking a victory for granted but on the contrary is putting his charges through hard practice scrimmages in order to get Central's attack working in more co-ordination, and is out on the gridiron every night until dark, with the squad to get in as much practice as possible before Friday.

Xenia will probably start the Troy game with Spahr and Perrine, the fleet flankers at the ends, Edwards and Peters at tackles, Harold Jordan and Jenkins at the guards, and Horner at center.

Either Boxwell or Chitty will direct their teammates from quarter, and Captain Zell, if entirely recovered from his injuries, will start at one half and either Holton or Towles at the other. Fred Scurry will commence the game at full back.

The game will start at 2:30 p.m., and the two well known officials, Dave Reese, of D nnsio o the man Dave Reese, of Denison, and "Dutch" Thiele, also of Denison, will have charge of the game.

WALL STREET REPORTS LIGHT BETTING ON ELECTION - COOLIDGE AND SMITH FAVORED

New York, Oct. 30.—Wall Street reported today the lightest pre-election week betting in the history of presidential campaigns, attributing it to the prohibitive odds with Coolidge quoted at 7 to 1 over Davis and LaFollette.

The high odds are diverting the betting to the number of electoral votes each candidate will poll, according to commission houses. One betting firm placed a number of wagers at even money that Coolidge will receive 300 votes in the electoral college, 1 to 2 he will get 325 electoral votes and 1 to 3 he will poll 350 electoral votes.

Another wager was made at even money that Coolidge will carry West Virginia, the home state of Davis. LaFollette is quoted at 12 to 1, having come down from 16 to 1 in the last few days. The commissions are offering 7 to 5 that Coolidge will get a more popular vote than Davis and LaFollette combined.

The odds in presidential campaigns, during the past twenty years were given as follows:

1920, Harding and Cox, Harding opened up 20 to 1, and on the eve of election was quoted at 15 to 1.

1916, Wilson and Hughes: Hughes opened at 7 to 5, favorite, went to 8 to 5 and closed 6 to 5.

1912, Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson: Taft opened at 7 to 5, went up to 9 to 5, but at the close Wilson came to the front a 7 to 5 favorite.

1908, Bryan and Taft opened at 2 to 1 and rose 4 1-2 to 1 at the close.

1904: Parker and Roosevelt: Roosevett opened at 2 to 1 and closed at 4 1-2 to 1.

"In the New York State election the high price of Coolidge is holding the odds on Smith down," another betting commissioner said. "Smith today is quoted at 8 to 5 and $60,000 has just changed hands at this price."

However there appears to be plenty of Roosevelt money waiting for the odds to rise within the next few days.

J. S. Fried and Company reported a bet placed at 15 to 1 that Wheeler would be the next president. This house also has placed money at 2 to 1 that Davis will beat LaFollette in greater New York.

"Campaign promises are as solemnly binding as if made under oath."

—HARRY L. DAVIS

An Open Letter to the Public—

To the Citizens of Ohio:

It has been my privilege in this campaign now closing to stand before many of you and talk to you about my candidacy for the high office of Governor of Ohio. The limitations of time make it impossible, however, to meet, as I should like, every man and woman in the state.

My first concern is that you cast your vote for President Coolidge who by his sterling character and good judgment has shown himself not only a party leader but every inch a President. Also that you support President Coolidge with a Republican Congress, so that there will be party accord in national affairs. This you can do only by your ballot.

Our Republican State Ticket should likewise be given your vote—so that there may be no doubt about the election of every candidate; and with these officials we should by all means elect a complete Republican State Legislature.

In every address I have asked Governor Donahey certain clear-cut and definite questions. A few of these questions have been passed to his department heads, resulting only in evasive and indirect replies. I stand ready and have challenged him to compare his record as governor with mine. He has refused.

My own record is before you. On it, I have no hesitancy to ask your support. To be elected Governor again, I must depend altogether on those who have the best interests of the people at heart; to the people, I must look for assistance in the fight I am making.

Every one of the campaign promises four years ago was fully performed. I am before you again, pledging once more to serve your interests with all my power and energy; to relieve the farmer and other abutting property owners of heavy assessments for road construction—to resume our program of constructing more permanent roads at less cost than now—strictly again to enforce all laws of Ohio—to re-establish firmly the great cash balance of $20,500,000 our administration built up—to keep abolished the $12,000,000 state tax levy wiped out as a direct result—and in all respects, to carry into full force and effect the 1924 Republican state platform.

To aid in accomplishing this, I again appeal to you for the election of all Republican State Candidates and a Republican Legislature.

Sincerely,

Harry L. Davis

TOM PAPPAS LOSES FIRST MAT CONTEST HERE TO BILL BROOKS

By L. J. WONES

The main go in the Eagles wrestling show held at Eagles hall Wednesday night between Tom Pappas, Springfield middleweight and Bill Brooks, Wilmington middleweight was won by the latter when he took the second and third falls in six minutes of uninteresting grappling.

Pappas won the first fall with a toe hold in ten minutes making Brooks give up. The second fall was won by the Wilmington man in three minutes using a scissors while he also won the third fall in the same time as the second winning with a bar lock. Neither man put up anything startling and Pappas showed poor form. Tom said after the bout "that this was the first and last bout he would lose in this city." Pappas agreed to meet Brooks next Wednesday night at Eagles hall for a finish match and a nice side bet. Broof said he was willing to grapple with the Springfield mat man anytime.

The semi-windup between Harry Kilnois of Columbus and Jim Miller of Akron, substituting for George Gatsoff who could not go on account of boils on his neck, proved to be one of the fastest and best matches the writer has seen at the hall to date. Miller, although he lost to Kilnois, is a tough little nut to crack. Miller is short of stature and is quick as a cat. He had Kilnois in several tight places and only Kilnois' strength helped him out. In the first five minutes of the match both scored toe holds but to no avail. Kilnois got a headlock and it looked like the Akron flash was doomed but Miller broke the hold and got a scissors several seconds later which Kilnois wriggled free of only to run into a toe hold which caused the Columbus man much pain but he again got out of it. After six more minutes of fierce wrestling Kilnois got a leg split that almost pinned Miller to the mat. Both men got numerous holds but Kilnois got another toe hold after forty-one minutes of tussling and Miller was forced to go to the mat. Kilnois winning the first fall. This has been the longest fall in the Eagles hall to date and the 41 minutes was chuck full of action.

Kilnois won the second fall and the match with a wrist lock and head scissors after twenty-three minutes. Miller said that "Kilnois was one of the toughest men he ever grappled with in his sixteen years of wrestling."

John "Scoop" Gordon of this city lost to Kid Black of Springfield in nine minutes when Black got a scissors that caused Gordon to give up. Gordon did well considering that it was his first appearance in the squared circle and he was handicapped as pounds while he also had more Black outweighed him by several experience than the Greene County lad.

Harry Spencer was the third man in the ring. A fair crowd attended the bouts.

TURKEY WILL COST MORE FOR HOLIDAY DINNER THIS YEAR

Ogdensburg, N. Y., October 29.—Your Thanksgiving dinner is going to cost you a deeper hole in your pocketbook this year.

That's the word coming today from the turkey breeding farms of the North Country, which contribute more than 50 per cent of the turkeys eaten in New York, Boston and Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day.

Wet weather—which hampered the work of farmers and which continued well into the summer months when turkeys were getting their start on their short lives—made inroads on the flocks of Northern New York, and this is expected to be a factor in determining Fall prices for the birds.

A flooded market last Fall, which resulted in the lowest prices in several years past, discouraged many farmers hereabouts from continuing with turkey raising, and as a result there now is a scarcity of the birds. Rains, which worked havoc with all the farmers throughout the summer, caused much illness among their flocks, with the result that those who did undertake turkey growing this year suffered severe losses.

One woman who owned eighty turkey chicks in the late Spring reported that only twenty survived an epidemic of sickness in her flock, then similar turkey losses in this date of the State point to higher prices for the birds when the annual harvest begins shortly before Thanksgiving.

LAST YEAR'S PRICES LOW
Last Fall, when turkeys first began to appear on the local market, as high as fifty-eight cents was being paid for dressed birds. As Thanksgiving approached the price gradually fell, and the day before Thanksgiving as low as thirty-seven cents was paid for dressed turkeys. Farmers were getting about eighty-two cents per hundred for them alive.

Earl Brown, who conducts a large farm near Chaumont, reports that he has a flock of about 300 birds. This is the largest flock he ever has raised, although he says that had not illness struck his flock he now would have a much larger one. He received thirty-two cents per pound for his turkeys live weight, last year and looks for a slightly higher price this Fall.

Local dealers today were unable to predict what the Thanksgiving birds will sell at, as they handle but few during the early days of the season. They are now paying from twenty-five to thirty cents a pound, live weight, and selling then for thirty-eight or forty cents dressed. About thirty-five cents a pound is being paid for dressed turkeys by the city market men.

TURKEY TRAIN WILL RUN
The annual turkey train, which is run out of Northern New York and which picks up turkeys from all points along the St. Lawrence division of the New York Central, again will run this year. It was said today by the Watertown office of the American Express Company, which operates it.

The buyers from Boston, Worcester, Philadelphia, Springfield and New York City, arrive about two weeks before Thanksgiving, visit farmers throughout the section and arrange for their turkey transportation to the railroad. About eight to ten carloads usually are taken out of this section, each car carrying about forty tons, which totals in the neighborhood of 300 to 400 tons, going into the foreign markets.

Turkey growers usually make an effort to catch this train with their birds, reserving only sufficient numbers to supply the local market and their own families.

During the fair and warmer weather of the past few weeks the birds have shown a great improvement, and although many growers have suffered severe losses from death among their flocks earlier in the season, the birds now are fattening and farmers are confident there will be turkey on most dinner tables this year at prices in excess of former years.

GERMAN LOAN AND BUSINESS SUBJECT OF BABSON SKETCH

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 6, 1924.—An analysis is being made at Babson Park of the subscriptions to the new German loan; who they are from, what sections of the country are providing the money, and the interest which is being shown by investors everywhere. That the loan has been a huge success is, of course, common knowledge; but it has not yet been fully realized what this successful flotation means. In an exclusive interview today Roger W. Babson made the following statement:

"So many comments have been made regarding the security and yield of the new German bonds that I need not discuss this phase of the question. Personally, I am hopeful regarding European bonds only on the assumption that there is to be a general disarmament in Europe. Europe has money enough either to make good its indebtedness or to maintain large armies. Whether or not it has sufficient funds to do both, only the future can tell. I sincerely trust that the League of Nations will develop some plan which will enable Europe to safely disarm. Then there will be no question regarding European bonds and the present German bonds should sell at a handsome premium. The fact that Europe has not disarmed is why Germany and these other countries are obliged to pay such a high rate of interest for their money. Moreover, the banks who have subscribed to these issues so generously have probably done so in anticipation that some such disarmament plan will be successfully worked out. Irrespective, however, of the question of the future market price of the securities two facts are self-evident:

"(1) The flotation of this loan in America and Europe means that arteries of trade, which have been clogged the past ten years, are today being opened. It is true that peace was theoretically declared when the Treaty of Versailles was signed. The signing of treaties, however, does not mean peace. The world is ruled by feelings rather than by treaties. Up until a few weeks ago there was almost as much bitterness between Germany and France as there was when the Armistice was signed. In a general way this applies to all countries, including the United States. Up to last week it was not good form even in the United States and Canada to do much business with Germany. The manufacturer or merchant who did business with Germany was looked upon by many people as a scab, is looked upon by members of a labor union. Today this is changed. The fact that the best bankers in the United States, England, France and other countries have subscribed to this loan shows that a great change in the situation has taken place. Certainly General Dawes and his associates are entitled to a tremendous amount of credit for their constructive part in this important development.

"(2) The opening up of these arteries of finance and commerce brings a real benefit to many sections of this country. Probably the first section to benefit will be the South. Germany is bound to import more cotton during the next twelve months than she has during any twelve months of the last ten years. With the good cotton crop which the South is having and the good prices which she is to receive, all the cotton states should distinctly benefit by the successful flotation of this German loan. The copper interests should also benefit somewhat. Although the consumption of copper is steadily increasing, with the tremendous ore bodies now being developed in South America and Africa, the price has been kept down to the detriment of American mines. Germany will now come into the market for copper and European consumption in general should be stimulated thereby. This means increased prosperity for Utah, Nevada, Arizona, and possibly even the Lake districts. All sections depending upon copper should be helped by this German loan. Although the price of wheat has turned recently, the sag would have been far more had this German loan been a failure. With the great amount of wheat being rushed to market and the huge crop, it is surprising that the price has not broken more. The successful flotation of the German loan should increase foreign demand and increase exports and thus distinctly help the grain situation. This especially applies to Canada which is destined to become the world's greatest factor in the production of wheat.

One should not close a comment on the German loan without reference to the men behind it. As I have often stated before, it is men who make prosperity; not money or materials or not even natural resources. The men behind this movement are the finest men that the world produces. I have the honor to be personally acquainted with Mr. Owen D. Young who has general charge of the Reparations Re-adjustment in Europe during the past few months. Mr. Young was a Boston man, a law partner of Mr. Charles H. Tyler. He then went to New York and is now Chairman of the Board of Directors of the General Electric Company. Also, it was his initiative that formed the Radio Corporation of America, and a number of other very important and far reaching developments. Mr. Young is a man of great ability and combines those two qualities of conservatism and vision in a most wonderful manner. I might also comment on General Dawes, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Gilbert and other men connected with this work. The fact that they are now interested in the bringing about of a real friendly feeling between the European countries, which for years have been fighting, is of itself a tremendous thing. Today's business as indicated on the Babson chart is seven per cent below normal. For the first time for many months I am willing to forecast that this will climb upward before long."

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During The Day

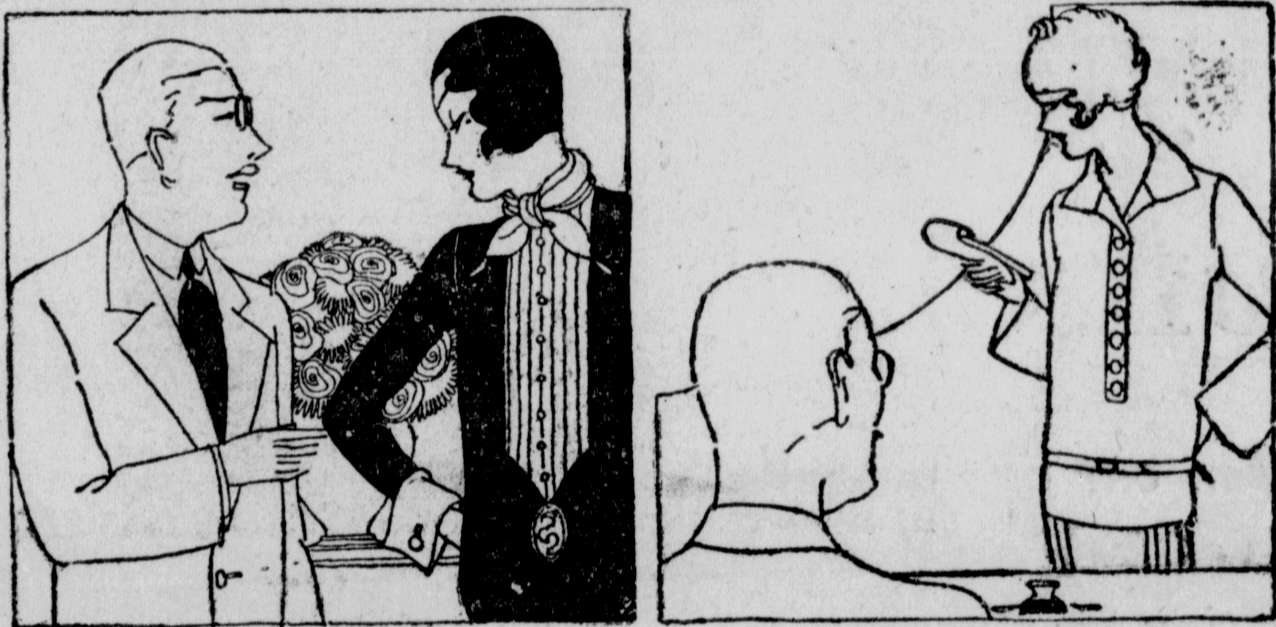

C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) I had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder trouble." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as Epsom Salts do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." These tablets cost 25¢ each at all drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Sayre and Hemphill.

If you prefer you may secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily. No need for strenuous exercise or starvation diet and no unpleasant effects.

Modish Mitzi—Mitzi Thinks Some Very Simple Styles Smart

By Jay V. Jay

"There is something so simple, so sensible about that dress, my dear," says Dad. Mitzi, of course, never bought it because it is simple or sensible, what woman would? She bought it because of the new collar and vestee front. And it is belted, which is another reason for Mitzi's choice.

"Perhaps styles are really going to look comfortable," thinks Dad as he summons his secretary, who wears a jersey dress with an overblouse effect. The neck can be worn high or low. The skirt is pleated. Simplicity, itself.

And the earnest young woman Dad summons by buzzer wears a most attractive navy blue gown with collar, cuffs and trimmings of white pique. This bears out Dad's theory that the world is dressing better than ever. And he is very pleased because he thinks he found it out by himself.

That evening Dad told Mitzi of his discovery. "People are acquiring better taste in clothes," he says, "no gew-gaws, you know." "Oh, yes," agrees Mitzi, "oh, yes, tailored things—even evening gowns—are very simple this season." Well, one should be grateful to the season, at least, concludes Dad.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing always complaining and doctoring simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides it doesn't injure the teeth, disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich, red blood and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

CREATOR OF "NICK" CARTER NOVELS IS CALLED BY DEATH

A glimpse into boyhood days and dreams of adventure was given Xenians with the announcement of the death of Thomas C. Harbaugh, 75, poet of Miami County, Ohio, and celebrated throughout the United States as the author of the "Nick Carter Novels," at the Miami County Infirmary, Tuesday afternoon.

"Nick Carter" was a household word nearly fifty years ago and every youthful Tom, Dick and Harry of that day secretly aspired to rival "Nick's" adventures. While the lads of today get their ideas of heroes from the movies, tales of world flights and true sea adventures, Harbaugh won his popularity among the boys who idealized his fantastic stories of bravery in pioneer days.

Many years ago, Mr. Harbaugh began his series of famous Nick Carter Novels. His work in these novels led him to fame throughout the United States and the name "Nick Carter" and many of the stories about him became popular phrases.

In addition to this most popular work, Mr. Harbaugh became noted for his colloquial poems dealing with the life of Ohio and particularly Miami County and Casstown, the town in which he lived the major portion of his life. Among the most treasured of his works is a "History of Miami County" which is looked upon as a household necessity in his home country.

Mr. Harbaugh had been a paying patient at the Miami County Infirmary near Troy, O., since September 13, 1923, at which time he voluntarily committed himself to the home for care. Since residing at the home, he had written only a few of his characteristic poems of Ohio life, but these few are said to be among the most expressive that have come from his pen.

Mr. Harbaugh is survived by two nephews, Albert Harbaugh, Casstown,

Ohio, and Calvin Harbaugh, Indiana. Funeral services will be held at the home of Albert Harbaugh, Casstown, Friday.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Get Back Your Health as Other Xenia Folks Have Done.

Too many people suffer lame, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late! Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Xenia cases:

John M. Stokesbury, 414 E. Second St., Xenia, says: "When I attempted to straighten after stooping, something caught me across my back. I suffered from pain through my kidneys. I was laid up for some time. I got Doan's Pills at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store and they cured me."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER Mr. Stokesbury added: "I have had no further occasion to use Doan's Pills."

New Type of C Automobile

It is an open car one moment and the same car is entirely enclosed. Studebaker Duplex—no need of hunting for side curtains in the

A new type of car has stirred the automobile world as has nothing since the abandonment of the "buggy" style of body building.

It is the Studebaker Duplex, so called to indicate that it is an open car one moment, and 30 seconds later it is an enclosed car.

Like all great advances in the industrial arts, it is "so simple in operation, it is a wonder it wasn't thought of before" — — —

Particularly since its need has been growing, year by year, ever since automobiles were made.

Many people all of the time, and most people part of the time, want an open car—to bring to their riding the fresh crispness of the country air, and a free and untrammelled association with the great outdoors.

Yet for these same people, the snug comfort of the closed car, shutting out the storm and the wind and the cold, has been at times a necessity.

Two cars in one

The Studebaker Duplex is both cars in one. Just pull down the roller enclosures concealed in the roof of the car. In 30 seconds the open car has been made an enclosed car.

No hurried efforts to put up curtains; no hunting for the right one while the storm beats in; no mixing them up in the dark; no exposure through holes torn in them while trying to obtain, for the emergency, the protection given by a closed car — — —

Just pull down the roller enclosures giving instant enclosed car effect.

The body is built substantially—sides, corners and roof frame are of steel. The roof has curved steel sides and back; U-shaped. Steel, U-shaped cross beams, six of them, support the waterproofed, duplex fabric top and its linings. There is permanent beauty, no sagging tops.

But Studebaker, on which the automobile-using world has come to depend for reliability, would not rest on only one real contribution to the value given the public.

It must give all that a car could devise.

Striking new features

So there are offered three distinct models of cars, to meet each of the three fields of demand—the Standard Six, with 113-inch wheelbase and 50 horsepower motor; the Special Six, with 120-inch wheelbase and 65 horsepower motor; the Big Six, most magnificent and luxurious of its products, with 127-inch wheelbase and 75 horsepower motor.

Duplex bodies are available on each line. In addition, closed models have workmanship and materials and beauty of line so far above the price class of the car, they must be seen to be appreciated.

Of scarcely less importance than the Duplex feature are other improvements such as, automatic ignition system, lighting control on the steering wheel, new location of emergency brake, improved one-piece windshield and many others.

The body lines, steering mechanism, and even the fenders of the new Studebaker were designed especially for genuine balloon tires. Thus the body lines harmonize with grace and beauty hitherto unattained, even by Studebaker.

Come in and see these new cars.

PROPOSED CHILD LABOR LAW SCORED AT GRANGE SESSION

The proposed Child Labor Law was declared to be one-sided, and one of the most foolish laws ever put before the public, by J. F. Gordon, of Jamestown, in an address before a combined meeting of Greene County Pomona Grange and Beaver Grange at Alpha, Wednesday.

The proposed law provides that children shall not be put to work until eighteen years of age which is ridiculous, according to Mr. Gordon who said if they are not taught to work before that time they will never be useful citizens. He cited a number of leading Americans who were earning their living early in life. He declared it ridiculous to have the state and government take charge of the child when it was really up to the parents to judge their child's life.

S. H. Shawhan, county Grange lecturer, gave a report of interviews with candidates, who had presented their platforms to the Grange members, through Mr. Shawhan.

Carl Merrick of Beaver Grange, gave a reading, as did Joseph Smith of Caesarcreek Grange. Mrs. Raymond Tobias, of Beaver Grange sang a solo and Xenia Grange Orchestra furnished the other music.

Mrs. A. L. Barger, Urbana, state superintendent of Juvenile Grange work and only woman member of the State Board of Agriculture, who was scheduled to address the meeting, was unable to be present, on account of illness.

The fifth degree was conferred on eleven candidates, during the day. Dinner was served at noon. The reports of various Granges of the county were given during the business meeting.

A combined meeting of Yellow Springs and Miami Grange will be held at Yellow Springs, the last Wednesday in January.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Truant Soul

By Victor Rousseau

She preceded her up the stairs, carrying an oil lamp. She set it down in Joan's room, and then she seemed to hesitate.

"Miss Wentworth," she said, "the doctor wants us to do everything we can to make you comfortable. There isn't likely to be any work unless some patient comes in. You were not to attend Mrs. Dana, I think?"

"I was told not." "That's so, Miss Wentworth." The matron's air was a very decided one, and again conveyed the impression of something hidden, which was, further, meant to remain hidden. "The doctor wired me that. I don't suppose he said anything about Mrs. Dana to you? Or—Mr. Myers?"

Her stealthy watchfulness now seemed of ominous portent, and the matron made no attempt to suppress the eagerness with which she awaited Joan's answer.

"No, Doctor Lancaster said nothing," answered the girl.

Then, seeing that the matron was still regarding her doubtfully, she added:

"But is not Doctor Jenkins resident here? I have not seen him yet, you know."

The matron stared at her in astonishment. "Why, Miss Wentworth, that was Doctor Jenkins who drove you up from the station! Didn't you know?" she asked.

"That was Doctor Jenkins?"

"I thought Doctor Lancaster would have told you about him. He's a graduate of Johns Hopkins. Old Doctor Lancaster wanted to build up an institution here where we ill people could work among our own. But the plan fell through. You see, the hospital in Avonmouth got hold of most of the money, and then—there were other difficulties. I don't know about them—I've only been here three years, and Doctor Jenkins wasn't graduated then, and we never pay attention to the gossip of the villagers."

She checked herself hastily, as if she was afraid of compromising herself.

"Doctor Jenkins has given up his life to the work here," she continued. "He lives at Millville, but we hope some time that Doctor Lancaster will build up the place again, if only—if only he—"

There was almost a look of agony on her face, and again she turned her eyes upon Joan's face as if to search out her thoughts. Then, with an abrupt "good night," she turned away. Joan called to her as she was leaving the room. "Mrs. Fraser," she said, "I understood there was a patient here besides Mrs. Dana."

The matron turned slowly round. "There was the boy who left this morning," she said inquiringly.

"But I understood from Doctor Lancaster—at least, he didn't tell me in so many words, but he gave me to understand that there was a special case here, requiring care and sympathy."

The matron stared at her. "No, there's nobody," she said. "Nobody except—"

Suddenly she uttered a convulsive sound, and, putting her hands over her face, ran from the room. Joan heard her stumbling down the corridor outside as if she had gone blind.

She stood irresolute in her room. Her sleepiness was gone; she was afraid, and she seemed to have got out of her depth. It had begun with John Lancaster's strange behavior in his office the evening before. She had not been able then to reconcile him in any way with the Lancaster whom she had seen, smug, self-satisfied and vain, in the operating room, the bully who kept the nurses in agitation and fear, though he was the traditional John Lancaster of whom she had heard. Then there was the man Myers, equally strange; and the matron. Some mystery was at the heart of it all; and Joan was the more afraid because the reason for her fear was unknown to her.

Her sleepiness was gone. She stood beside the window, looking out into the darkness. A whippoorwill was calling monotonously among the plumes; here and there among the hills a solitary light was twinkling. The air was cool and balsam scented. It was like the dearly remembered days at home. But in the heart of that peace was apprehension.

Looking back now, Joan thought that she had undertaken a rash and extraordinary adventure in coming so far from Avonmouth alone, and at the proposal of a man whose reputation was an evil one. She would go home on the morrow.

Something was wrong, and in spite of his apparent kindness an inner prompting warned her to beware of

BRITISH LABOR GOVERNMENT FALLS

EARLY RETURNS SHOW TORIES WIN MAJORITY OF PARLIAMENT SEATS; STANLEY BALDWIN TO BE PREMIER

Liberals Also Fall Behind In Conservative Victory—
MacDonald Wins Seat—Asquith Defeated—
Tories Give Selections.

London, Oct. 30.—(4pm.)—At this hour the Tories had rolled up a working majority in the house of commons with 360 seats and were still going strong. Returns so far give the Laborites 129 seats.

The Liberal party was practically wiped out in the general election, having only 24 seats on the strength of present returns.

Apparently the Tories in commons will command twice as many votes as Laborites and Liberals combined.

The Tories gained over 130 seats. Labor lost over 24 and the Liberals lost nearly 100.

London, Oct. 30.—Tory gains continued to mount up as more than half of the 615 constituencies reported at noon today.

At that time, the Tories had won 195 seats, Laborites 85, Liberals 30 and others nine.

London, Oct. 30.—England's conservative party, leader in the first returns from the parliamentary election, continued to gain as additional constituencies reported today, promising the return of a Tory majority and the overthrow of Premier MacDonald's labor cabinet.

The Conservatives carried 165 seats in the early returns, a gain of 58 seats, with losses in but 7 constituencies. The laborites carried 73, a net loss of 15, and the Liberals had carried but 23, a net loss of 36 seats.

The Laborite party, controlling the last parliament through the tacit consent of the Liberals, probably will be the chief opposition in the next session with but slightly reduced strength and with the Liberals the minority party.

Labor lost a number of seats in the Tory victory, although the Liberal reversal was much greater.

Former Premier Asquith, defeated in his stand for a return to parliament, probably will retire as the result of his adverse showing.

Lloyd George probably will succeed to the Liberal leadership.

A disintegration of the Liberal party was foreseen today as a result of the election. It was predicted that some of the Liberals would seek the Laborite standard and some go to the conservative ranks, but Lloyd George will have his chance to try the strength of the party and attempt to lead it back into power.

Despite the heavy women's vote, Lady Astor and Ellen Wilkinson, Laborite candidates, were the only two showing victories in the returns thus far. Seventeen other women were defeated for seats.

"The Tory victory shows the British people love their country and their flag, just as an American loves their Stars and Stripes," Lady Astor said, when it was learned that she had been returned from Plymouth.

Premier MacDonald will meet the cabinet tomorrow and is expected to start the inquiry into the Zinovieff note. The Labor leader has decided to carry on and force the Tories to defeat Labor in the house before resigning.

There is some conjecture as to whether Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader, will accept the premiership or turn it over to some other Conservative leader.

London, Oct. 30.—Returns from the general elections show Conservative parliamentary candidates in the lead, Laborites second and the Liberals third.

Conservatives made gains in nearly every district. Lady Astor was re-elected for the Sutton division of Plymouth. Her majority was increased from 2,676 to 5,079. The poll: Lady Astor, Conservative, 18,174; Captain G. W. Brennan, Labor, 13,095. Former Premier H. H. Asquith (Liberal) was defeated in Paisley.

Miss Margaret Bondfield, parliamentary secretary for Labor, was defeated in Northampton by 1,000 votes. The Labor war minister, Stephen Walsh, was re-elected for the Ince division of Lancashire. John Robert Clynes, lord privy seal and deputy leader of the house, was re-elected for the Plating division of Manchester.

Brooding over the diary of his sixteen-year-old daughter, beautiful Marilouise Chambers, who two weeks before had ended her life with a bullet, led her father, Frank Ross Chambers, Jr., to kill himself in the same manner in San Mateo, Cal. Chambers was the son of one of the world's largest clothing manufacturers, was a Cornell graduate and a fine engineer. He divorced his first wife because she refused to live in the West, and left a nineteen-year-old widow when he died. The girl's diary revealed that she was a narcotic addict, and this is believed to have caused her father's death.

The department of justice considers it highly unlikely, that any proceedings will be started before the election next Tuesday. Officials added that the proximity of the election has led, but that it will require some time for the United States attorneys to furnish the facts to other attorney general.

Stone Asks District Attorneys to Bring Charges
In Their Vicinity

Attorney General Will Select Test Cases—More Than One to be Filed

Washington, Oct. 30.—Attorney General Stone announced today that he had asked "several" United States attorneys to present suitable charges against newspapers within their jurisdictions charging publication of income tax lists in violation of the law.

"It is quite possible that more than one case will be filed against newspapers," Stone declared.

The attorney general said that from reports received from U. S. attorneys he would select the test cases to be tried.

The department of justice desires that a case be selected which is most representative of all phases of the alleged violation. It was pointed out that several large newspapers published the income tax lists along with a statement that the bureau of internal revenue had issued a warning that to do so was apparently in violation of the law.

Publication under these circumstances, it was stated, made the publication deliberately against the advice of the authorities.

Stone said he had not asked all of the U. S. district attorneys to submit reports on cases they might be able to bring against newspapers. However he declined to say which district attorneys were requested to institute investigations.

MAN HELD FOR MURDER OF WIFE IS FOUND A SUICIDE IN JAIL CELL

Body of Wife Discovered In Abandoned Mine Shaft—
Husband Arrested, Hangs Himself In Jail By
His Suspenders

Belvidere, N. J., Oct. 30.—Frank Thomas, railroad worker, held in jail here as a material witness in the murder of his wife, Grace, whose nude body was found in an abandoned mine shaft near here, committed suicide in his jail cell here sometime during the night, by hanging himself to a bar of his cell. He was found dead today.

Thomas had been placed under arrest following the discovery of his wife's body and all her belongings in the pit. He denied any knowledge of her slayer, contending she left home several days before the body was found. He said he returned to the house last Sunday night and found a window shattered, furniture in disorder and blood spots on the floor.

The mine pit is 14 miles from the Thomas home and police worked on the theory that the slayer or slayers might have taken the woman's body there in an automobile.

Thomas, however, did not own a car and, so far as could be ascertained, could not even drive one.

When Warden Smith visited Thomas' cell at six a.m., he found the prisoner lying on the floor, his head and shoulders held by a noose in his suspenders knotted about his neck.

County Physician Cummins, summoned to the jail, said Thomas probably had been dead about six hours.

Warden Smith said he visited the cell about 9 o'clock last night and talked with Thomas, who was smoking a cigarette and appeared to be cheerful.

Thomas apparently had tied the knot about his neck and the other end of the suspenders to the bar and then had lain down, allowing the noose to strangle him.

MRS. LAURA LACKEY DIES WEDNESDAY AT HOME OF SON HERE

Mrs. Laura Sellers Lackey, 76, widow of Enos Ellsworth Lackey, passed away at the home of her son, Dr. Burt L. Lackey, on Home Avenue, Wednesday night at 9 o'clock. Death was caused by a complication of diseases, from which she had been ill for several months.

Mrs. Lackey was the daughter of Ferdinand and Rebecca Hormell Sellers and was born in Warren County, March 20, 1848. Her marriage to Mr. Lackey took place September 26, 1867. Three sons were born to the union two of whom, Walter V. Lackey, of New Burlington and Dr. B. L. Lackey of this city, survive. Another son, Raymond L. Lackey, died seventeen years ago.

Mr. Lackey died January 9, 1903. Mrs. Lackey resided most of her life in Warren and Clinton Counties, most of that time in New Burlington, but came to Xenia in 1903, after the death of her husband.

Three brothers, the Rev. O. M. Sellers, West Milton, O.; Wilbur S. Sellers, Springfield; Harry H. Sellers, Glendora, Calif., and one sister, Miss Adda Sellers, Springfield also survive. Another brother, Charles Sellers of Springfield, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Lucas, of Xenia preceded Mrs. Lackey in death.

Mrs. Lackey was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New Burlington, later affiliating with the First M. E. Church, this city.

She had been ill since early summer and in July went to the home of her son, Dr. B. L. Lackey, where she was cared for.

Funeral services will be held at the Lackey home, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at the New Burlington M. E. Church at 2 o'clock. Friends may call Friday afternoon and evening. Interment will be made in New Burlington Cemetery.

RED CROSS WORKERS MEET IN TOWNSHIPS

Mrs. Charles L. Bales, County Red Cross Roll Call Chairman and Miss Louise B. Shaffer, secretary, met Wednesday afternoon with the Roll Call workers in Jefferson Township.

They gave statistics of the work of the county Red Cross during the past year, particularly among school children.

In the evening a meeting of the New Jasper workers was held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Bickett. One family in New Jasper Township with a number of children was given material relief last winter and medical care arranged for one member of the family last year. Three crippled children in the township were offered clinic care. Several other families were given special attention.

Posters of the Eighth Red Cross Roll Call will be distributed this week, according to the plans of the chairman, Mrs. Bales.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

There is nothing that strikes quite so much terror to the soul of a young mother as to see her baby go into convulsions. The condition is generally due to overfeeding, although a very small percentage of cases may, perhaps, be due to improper feeding, underfeeding, constipation, impure air or water, or lack of exercise.

Whatever the cause, the first thing to be done is to put the child in a hot tub. Then try to induce vomiting. Hold the child face downward. Put your finger down its throat, and thus force the stomach to empty itself. Next, raise the windows as high as you can; pure fresh air contains the oxygen necessary to life. A child may die for want of oxygen and the energy secured from it. Keep the child warm. Use hot-water bottles, clothing, or whatever may be necessary.

The hot abdominal pack should next be used. Hold an ordinary bath-towel by its two ends. Immerse as much of the towel as possible in boiling water. Wring it as dry as you can, and then, after folding it into the proper size and shape, wrap it, hot and moist, all the way around the child's little body from hips to arm-pits, next the skin.

Be careful not to burn the child, but apply the towel as hot as can be borne. In case of fever, a cold towel may be used. The child's little body from hips to armpits will usually induce such profuse perspiration that the body temperature will be quickly reduced.

A hot-water bottle to the back will increase or prolong the efficiency of either a hot abdominal or spinal pack. If a small amount of hot water is put into a hot-water bag, the child can lie on it advantageously.

Preceding the hot pack a high enema should be given, using the smallest size of rectal tube, which should be freely oiled or greased. This will be found valuable in helping to cleanse the lower bowel. Then let the child rest. Too much treatment, or incessant coddling or handling by interfering with rest, may cause death.

When the doctor comes your efforts in meeting the emergencies will usually be commended if he understands that you prefer to avoid medicines in treating your child.

PASTOR HONORED BY KNIGHTS AT AFFAIR WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Rev. Father David Powers, pastor of St. Brigid's Catholic Church, was honor guest at an informal reception arranged in his honor by Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus in the council rooms Wednesday evening.

The Rev. Father Edward McGinty, pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Jamestown, was also a guest at the affair, which was attended by more than sixty Knights. Following an informal reception in the lounge, eucher was played, John Leahy winning the score prize. Luncheon followed cards, after which C. E. O'Brien, acting for Grand Knight Henry Walsh who is out of the city, presented each of the priests with a gift and promised the Xenia pastor the hearty support and cooperation of the Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. Father Powers, in responding, reviewed the work of the Knights of Columbus during the war, telling of the sacrifices made by priest chaplains and K. of C. secretaries, but urged the Knights to forget their war time activities now and turn their attention to future accomplishments and not to rest on past laurels.

Among these duties the pastor enumerated an interest in the graduates of the parochial high school. The pastor also referred to the recent purchase of the property of Mrs. Mary Bain on West Main Street, to be used as a home for Sisters of Charity teaching in the parochial schools, and said he had hoped to announce the purchase as a surprise at the meeting had it not been given publicly before. He thanked the Knights for their offer of cooperation in closing his remarks.

Brief but Important Reasons in Finance, Marketing, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

RADIO STOCK IS FOR THE SPECULATOR AND NOT FOR THE INVESTOR

POSSIBILITIES

What is to be said for and against investing in radio corporation stocks?

The problem of whether or not to invest in radio stocks is much the same problem as that of investing in any other new industry which looks as though it would assume tremendous proportions.

In any such industry, huge profits are reaped and huge losses are incurred. This is true because the essential element of risk is very high. It is especially high in radio because a new series of inventions may come out at any time which will wholly antedate any present equipment and which can be sold for much less than present equipment.

If a man buys radio stock he is hardly to be classed as an investor.

Mother of three children tells experience with "Mother's Friend."

"I USED 'Mother's Friend' before my last baby came," says Mrs. McCormick, Liberty St., Pontiac, Mich., "and brought him with very little discomfort. I am the mother of three children but I never had such an easy time with the other two. I recommend 'Mother's Friend' to all expectant mothers."

but rather as a speculator. Speculators are ready to take great risks for large profits, and if you are among this class buy radio stock, because there is enough risk in it to give a hardened speculator a flutter. Of course, every effort to analyze the stock should be made, even by the speculator.

OF ESPECIAL INTEREST JUST NOW

There is nothing in the political machinery of any government elsewhere that is so curiously complicated as our system of electing Presidents. As it was first devised this scheme made no allowance at all for the rise of political parties, with their leaders and candidates. It was not put to the test in the two elections that made Washington President, nor in that of 1796 that elected John Adams. But in the election of 1800, it happened that Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr each received seventy-three electoral votes, these two men being foremost leaders of the new popular party that was opposing the conservative Federalists who were then in power. John Adams received sixty-five votes as a candidate for a second term, while sixty-four votes were cast for Mr. Pinckney, who was a Senator from South Carolina, and also a Federalist, with a single electoral vote for Mr. Jay, who was then Governor of the State of New York. Under the Constitution as it then stood, the presidential electors, meeting in their respective States, were required to vote for two names, having in mind the offices of President and Vice-President but not assigning their selections to either of these offices. The electoral votes were transmitted to Congress, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes was declared President, while the one standing next in the list was Vice-President. This plan seemed so reasonable in theory that its inventors were confident it would work well in practice.

There were only 138 electoral votes altogether in the year 1800, so that Jefferson and Burr each had received a clear majority and it became necessary for the House of Representatives to designate one of them as President and the other as Vice-President. The House that had the decision to make had been elected in 1798 and was strongly Federalist. In this particular case, the party of Jefferson and Burr had decisively won the Presidential election, and the House had only to take the two candidates of that party and decide which of them should have the Presidency. There were fifteen States represented in the House and each State delegation had to act as a unit in making the choice. Eight states preferred Jefferson and six voted for Burr (one seems to have been a tie). Thus Jefferson became President and Burr became Vice-President. It had by this time become evident that each Presidential elector ought to have had the power to designate one man for President and another man for Vice-President, rather than to send two names up to Congress without expressing preference for either.

Accordingly, the Constitution was amended in time to remedy this defect before the election of 1804. For 120 years, we have been choosing Presidents under the terms of the amendment that was proposed to the legislatures of the States by the English Congress on December 12, 1803, and that was declared to have been duly ratified in a proclamation issued by Secretary of State James Madison on September 25, 1804.

The Twelfth Amendment, thus adopted and made applicable to the election of 1804, did not change the plan of choosing a President through the mechanism of an electoral college. It left the electoral system as provided in the original Constitution of 1787. But it required the electors to "name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President."—Albert Shaw.

I HAVE MY LIFE TO LIVE

"I have my life to live," he said.
"These are my days and weeks and years;
That is my future, just ahead,
Why should I care who grieves or sneers?
"Why should I pause, when pleasure bent,

Because another bids me stay?
I have my right to merriment;
Why should I care what others say?

"I do not ask that they incline
Their lives to fit my little plan;
Why should they seek to fashion mine
And hinder me when'er they can?

Said I: "I hold within my hand
A stone which is my right to throw;
I have the strength to fling it, and
It pleases me to let it go.

"It strikes my mother in the face!
It stuns my father standing there!
Would you get up and plead my case
And argue that my deed was fair?

"That life of yours, you proudly boast,
If lived to suit your whims alone,
Will injure those who love you most
Far more than any careless stone.

"When pleasure leads you to disgrace,
And head-long into shame you go,
You strike your mother in the face,
And stun your father with the blow."

A Doll Sewing Case: This would be an excellent present for a child. It is made with a real doll, one of the tall, cloth-body type with china head six inches from head to feet. The doll's petticoats are needle- and pin-holders. Its outer dress contains two pockets, one holding a thimble and the other holding a small tape measure. Between its two hands is run a strong piece of tape on which are suspended two spools of sewing cotton (one black spool, and one white). A pair of small scissors slips into a loop on the shoulders, in the back. Dolly is supposed to sit up against the wall on a table, or against the mirror on one's dresser.

Extra Bonnet Strings for an Infant: This would be a splendid gift for the mother of a small child. Every mother finds it a problem to keep her baby's bonnet strings fresh. The strings I saw in a small box were made of lawn neatly hand-hemstitched, of the string would be attached to a safety-pin covered with a pink ribbon rosette, was placed at the end where the string would be attached to a bonnet.

A Useful Article for the Traveler: This was made with a pair of scissors in a sheath (or leather case) which reached to the nickel rings at the top of the scissors (where the thumb and fingers go through). The leather case had been ingeniously covered with dark blue velvet and a square crosspiece of dark blue velvet stiffened with pasteboard, had been

Today's Talks

WHAT DOES TODAY MEAN?

In the first place, today means what you did yesterday. It means the accumulation of all yesterdays. It means that the only failure possible is the failure within your own heart.

Do your work this day better than you have ever done it and you will not only be bigger in every way, but very much wiser.

It takes some people so long to learn the simple truth that the more you know the better and more efficient you work and the happier you are.

One of the most inspiring characters that ever lived in America was Charles P. Steinmetz. He was a cripple. He weighed hardly more than a hundred pounds. Yet when he died he was one of the world's recognized geniuses and drew a salary alone of over a hundred thousand dollars a year.

Steinmetz was a remarkable human being, taking an interest in the welfare and happiness of all those about him. He was a hard worker. He got his education and thrills out of his work. He believed that today was a gold mine in which every human being had a right to work as a privileged character.

He worked his way through college. He sold books. He invented scores of devices and discovered dozens of new ways of revealing the wonders of this world to people. He was honored by many great institutions and was loved and admired around the globe.

Seemingly Steinmetz had everything against him—excepting himself and today. He took the two, however, and with them made this a better world in which to live.

Today will never come around again.

BALLANTYNE PUTS GRIDDERS THROUGH PRACTICE FOR TROY

Coach John Ballantyne is putting his Central High School gridders through the stiffest practice sessions of the season this week in anticipation of one of the hardest games of the season Friday afternoon, when Troy High School is met at Cox Memorial Field. The gridders, themselves sensing the first victory of the season Friday, led by Captain Allen Zell, are tearing into the poor scrubs with renewed vigor and should be in fine shape for the Troy fray.

Several of the first string players, including Boxwell, Holton, and Scurry, have entirely recovered from their injuries, and all are in the best physical shape for the Friday combat, with the exception of Captain Zell, who although just recovered from an affected foot, had his shoulder injured in practice, but is expected to start the Troy game at his old position at left half.

With Scurry, the big colored full back into the game in old time form, entirely recuperated from a twisted ankle, the offense and defense of the eleven will be materially strengthened.

Troy is somewhat of an unknown football quantity this year, but after losing early games has come back strong in the past few contests and expects to hand another set back to the local team.

In Eyer, left half, Troy has its one big asset, both on offense and defense, as this lad is a triple threat man, and can run, pass, or kick, with equal success. It was Eyer, that almost one-handed enabled Troy to defeat Tippecanoe City last week, by a large score, and the locals are practicing with the one idea of stopping this fast half and preventing him from getting into the clear for one of the long runs for which he is noted.

In other ways, Troy does not promise to be much of a threat, as the team was hit hard by graduation last spring, and has had difficulty in getting on a winning stride this season.

Coach Ballantyne, is not taking a victory for granted but on the contrary is putting his charges through hard practice scrimmages in order to get Central's attack working in more co-ordination, and is out on the grid-iron every night until dark, with the squad to get in as much practice as possible before Friday.

Xenia will probably start the Troy game with Spahr and Perrine, the fleet flankers at the ends, Edwards and Peters at tackles, Harold Jordan and Jenkins at the guards, and Horner at center.

Either Boxwell or Chitty will direct their teammates from quarter, and Captain Zell, if entirely recovered from his injuries, will start at one half and either Holton or Towles at the other. Fred Scurry will commence the game at full back.

The game will start at 2:30 p.m., and the two well known officials, Dave Reese, of Denison, and "Dutch" Thiele, also of Denison, will have charge of the game.

WALL STREET REPORTS LIGHT BETTING ON ELECTION - COOLIDGE AND SMITH FAVORED

New York, Oct. 30.—Wall Street reported today the lightest pre-election week betting in the history of presidential campaigns, attributing it to the prohibitive odds with Coolidge quoted at 7 to 1 over Davis and LaFollette.

The high odds are diverting the betting to the number of electoral votes each candidate will poll, according to commission houses. One betting firm placed a number of wagers at even money that Coolidge will receive 300 votes in the electoral college, 1 to 2 he will get 325 electoral votes and 1 to 3 he will poll 350 electoral votes.

Another wager was made at even money that Coolidge will carry West Virginia, the home state of Davis. LaFollette is quoted at 12 to 1, having come down from 16 to 1 in the last few days. The commissions are offering 7 to 5 that Coolidge will get a more popular vote than Davis and LaFollette combined.

The odds in presidential campaigns, during the past twenty years were given as follows:

1920, Harding and Cox, Harding opened up 20 to 1, and on the eve of election was quoted at 15 to 1.

1916, Wilson and Hughes: Hughes opened at 7 to 5, favorite, went to 5 to 5 and closed 6 to 5.

1912, Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson: Taft opened at 7 to 5, went up to 9 to 5, but at the close Wilson came to the front a 7 to 5 favorite.

1908, Bryan and Taft opened at 2 to 1 and rose 4 1-2 to 1 at the close.

1904, Parker and Roosevelt: Roosevelt opened at 2 to 1 and closed at 4 1-2 to 1.

"In the New York State election the high price of Coolidge is holding the odds on Smith down," another betting commissioner said. "Smith today is quoted at 8 to 5 and $60,000 has just changed hands at this price."

However there appears to be plenty of Roosevelt money waiting for the odds to rise within the next few days.

J. S. Fried and Company reported a bet placed at 15 to 1 that Wheeler would be the next president. This house also has placed money at 2 to 1 that Davis will beat LaFollette in greater New York.

for Governor

"Campaign promises are as solemnly binding as if made under oath."

—HARRY L. DAVIS

An Open Letter to the Public—

To the Citizens of Ohio:

It has been my privilege in this campaign now closing to stand before many of you and talk to you about my candidacy for the high office of Governor of Ohio. The limitations of time make it impossible, however, to meet, as I should like, every man and woman in the state.

My first concern is that you cast your vote for President Coolidge who by his sterling character and good judgment has shown himself not only a party leader but every inch a President. Also that you support President Coolidge with a Republican Congress, so that there will be party accord in national affairs. This you can do only by your ballot.

Our Republican State Ticket should likewise be given your vote—so that there may be no doubt about the election of every candidate; and with these officials we should by all means elect a complete Republican State Legislature.

In every address I have asked Governor Donahey certain clear-cut and definite questions. A few of these questions have been passed to his department heads, resulting only in evasive and indirect replies. I stand ready and have challenged him to compare his record as governor with mine. He has refused.

My own record is before you. On it, I have no hesitancy to ask your support. To be elected Governor again, I must depend altogether on those who have the best interests of the people at heart; to the people, I must look for assistance in the fight I am making.

Every one of the campaign promises four years ago was fully performed. I am before you again, pledging once more to serve your interests with all my power and energy; to relieve the farmer and other abutting property owners of heavy assessments for road construction—to resume our program of constructing more permanent roads at less cost than now—strictly again to enforce all laws of Ohio—to re-establish firmly the great cash balance of $20,500,000 our administration built up—to keep abolished the $12,000,000 state tax levy wiped out as a direct result—and in all respects, to carry into full force and effect the 1924 Republican state platform.

To aid in accomplishing this, I again appeal to you for the election of all Republican State Candidates and a Republican Legislature.

Sincerely,

Harry L. Davis

Columbus, Ohio,
October 28, 1924.

TOM PAPPAS LOSES FIRST MAT CONTEST HERE TO BILL BROOKS

By L. J. WONES

The main go in the Eagles wrestling show held at Eagles hall Wednesday night between Tom Pappas, Springfield, middleweight, and Bill Brooks, Wilmington, middleweight was won by the latter when he took the second and third falls in six minutes of uninteresting grappling.

Pappas won the first fall with a toe hold in ten minutes making Brooks give up. The second fall was won by the Wilmington man in three minutes using a scissors while he also won the third fall in the same time as the second winning with a bar lock. Neither man put up anything startling and Pappas showed poor form. Tom said after the bout "that this was the first and last bout I would lose in this city." Pappas agreed to meet Brooks next Wednesday night at Eagles hall for a final match and a nice side bet. Brooks said he was willing to grapple with the Springfield man anytime.

The semi-windup between Harry Kilnois of Columbus and Jim Miller of Akron, substituting for George Gatsoff who could not go on account of boils on his neck, proved to be one of the fastest and best matches the writer has seen at the hall to date. Miller, although he lost to Kilnois, is a tough little nut to crack. Miller is short of stature and is quick as a cat. He had Kilnois in several tight places and only Kilnois' strength helped him out.

In the first five minutes of the match both scored toe holds but to no avail. Kilnois got a headlock and it looked like the Akron flash was doomed but Miller broke the hold and got a scissors several seconds later which Kilnois wriggled free of only to run into a toe hold which caused the Columbus man much pain but he again got out of it. After six more minutes of fierce wrestling Kilnois got a leg split that almost pinned Miller to the mat. Both men got numerous holds but Kilnois got another toe hold after forty-one minutes of tussling and Miller was forced to go to the mat, Kilnois winning the first fall. This has been the longest fall in the Eagles hall to date and the 41 minutes was chuck full of action.

Kilnois won the second fall and the match with a wrist lock and head scissors after twenty-three minutes. Miller said that "Kilnois was one of the toughest men he ever grappled with in his sixteen years of wrestling."

John "Scoop" Gordon of this city lost to Kid Black of Springfield in nine minutes when Black got a scissors that caused Gordon to give up. Gordon did well considering that it was his first appearance in the squared circle and he was handicapped as pounds while he also has had more Black outweighed him by several experience than the Greene County lad.

Harry Spencer was the third man in the ring. A fair crowd attended the bouts.

DRY OFFICERS KILL MAN AFTER ATTEMPT TO HALT AUTO FAILS

Visiting Relatives

Ashland, Ohio, Oct. 30.—John Dalton, 35, of New York City, was dead today having been shot and instantly killed late last night, when an auto in which he was riding with two companions refused to heed the command of a party of dry raiders headed by Sheriff Barr to halt.

A posse of nine officers, including Ashland policemen and Deputy Sheriff Ropp had a warrant to search the home of former Prosecuting Attorney George Frey. As they approached the Frey home northwest of Ashland, the auto containing three men suspected of having been at Frey's, was met.

When the machine refused to stop, shots were fired, one of which killed Dalton.

Officers said they found two empty jugs in the machine. Dalton's two companions, Basil Crawford and George Fearer, were being held in the county jail.

Dalton, who was visiting relatives, is survived by his wife and three small children.

East Hardwick, Vt.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, side ache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. There is no use to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me."

TURKEY WILL COST MORE FOR HOLIDAY DINNER THIS YEAR

Ogdensburg, N. Y., October 30.—Your Thanksgiving dinner is going to dig even a deeper hole in your pocketbook this year.

That's the word coming today from the turkey breeding farms of the North Country, which contribute more than 50 per cent of the turkeys eaten in New York, Boston and Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day.

Wet weather—which hampered the work of farmers and which continued well into the Summer months when turkeys were getting their start on their short lives—made inroads on the flocks of Northern New York, and this is expected to be a factor in determining Fall prices for the birds.

A flooded market last Fall, which resulted in the lowest prices in several years past, discouraged many farmers hereabouts from continuing with turkey raising, and as a result there now is a scarcity of the birds. Rains, which worked havoc with all the farmers throughout the Summer, caused much illness among their flocks, with the result that those who did undertake turkey growing this year suffered severe losses.

One woman who owned eighty "key chicks in the late Spring reported that only twenty survived an epidemic of sickness in her flock, then similar turkey losses in this date of the State point to higher prices for the birds when the annual harvest begins shortly before Thanksgiving.

LAST YEAR'S PRICES LOW

Last Fall, when turkeys first began to appear on the local market, as high as fifty-eight cents was being paid for dressed birds. As Thanksgiving approached the price gradually fell, and the day before Thanksgiving as low as thirty-seven cents was paid for dressed turkeys. Farmers were getting about eighty-two cents per hundred for them alive.

Earl Brown, who conducts a large farm near Chaumont, reports that he has a flock of about 300 birds. This is the largest flock he ever has raised, although he says that had not illness struck his flock he now would have a much larger one. He received thirty-two cents per pound for his turkeys live weight, last year and looks for a slightly higher price this Fall.

Local dealers today were unable to predict what the Thanksgiving birds will sell at, as they handle but few during the early days of the season. They are now paying from twenty-five to thirty cents a pound, live weight, and selling then for thirty-eight or forty cents a pound is being paid for dressed turkeys by the city market men.

TURKEY TRAIN WILL RUN

The annual turkey train, which is run out of Northern New York and which picks up turkeys from all points along the St. Lawrence division of the New York Central, again will run this year. It was said today by the Watertown office of the American Express Company, which operates it.

The buyers from Boston, Worcester, Philadelphia, Springfield and New York City, arrive about two weeks before Thanksgiving, visit farmers throughout the section and arrange for their turkey transportation to the railroad. About eight to ten carloads usually are taken out of this section, each car carrying about forty tons, which totals in the neighborhood of 300 to 400 tons, going into the foreign markets.

Turkey growers usually make an effort to catch this train with their birds—reserving only sufficient numbers to supply the local market and their own families.

During the fair and warmer weather of the past few weeks the birds have shown a great improvement, and although many growers have suffered severe losses from death among their flocks earlier in the season, the birds now are fattening and farmers are confident there will be turkey on most dinner tables this year at prices in excess of former years.

GERMAN LOAN AND BUSINESS SUBJECT OF BABSON SKETCH

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 6, 1924.—An analysis is being made at Babson Park of the subscriptions to the new German loan; who they are from, what sections of the country are providing the money, and the interest which is being shown by investors everywhere. That the loan has been a huge success is, of course, common knowledge; but it has not yet been fully realized what this successful flotation means. In an exclusive interview today Roger W. Babson made the following statement:

"So many comments have been made regarding the security and yield of the new German bonds that I need not discuss this phase of the question. Personally, I am hopeful regarding European bonds only on the assumption that there is to be a general disarmament in Europe. Europe has money enough either to make good its indebtedness or to maintain large armies. Whether or not it has sufficient funds to do both, only the future can tell. I sincerely trust that the League of Nations will develop some plan which will enable Europe to safely disarm. Then there will be no question regarding European bonds and the present German bonds should sell at a handsome premium. The fact that Europe has not disarmed is why Germany and these other countries are obliged to pay such a high rate of interest for their money. Moreover, the banks who have subscribed to these issues so generously have probably done so in anticipation that some such disarmament plan will be successfully worked out. Irrespective, however, of the question of the future market price of the securities two facts are self-evident:

"(1) The flotation of this loan in America and Europe means that arteries of trade, which have been clogged the past ten years, are today being opened. It is true that peace was theoretically declared when the Treaty of Versailles was signed. The signing of treaties, however, does not mean peace. The world is ruled by feelings rather than by treaties. Up until a few weeks ago there was almost as much bitterness between Germany and France as there was when the Armistice was signed. In a general way this applies to all countries, including the United States. Up to last week it was not good form even in the United States and Canada to do much business with Germany. The manufacturer or merchant who did business with Germany was looked upon by many people as a scab, looked upon by members of a labor union. Today this is changed. The fact that the best bankers in the United States, England, France and other countries have subscribed to this loan shows that a great change in the situation has taken place. Certainly General Dawes and his associates are entitled to a tremendous amount of credit for their constructive part in this important development.

"(2) The opening up of these arteries of finance and commerce brings a real benefit to many sections of this country. Probably the first section to benefit will be the South. Germany is bound to import more cotton during the next twelve months than she has during any twelve months of the last ten years. With the good cotton crop which the South is having and the good prices which she is to receive, all the cotton states should distinctly benefit by the successful flotation of this German loan. The copper interests should also benefit somewhat. Although the consumption of copper is steadily increasing, with the tremendous ore bodies now being developed in South America and Africa, the price has been kept down to the detriment of American mines. Germany will now come into the market for copper and European consumption in general should be stimulated thereby. This means increased prosperity for Utah, Nevada, Arizona, and possibly even the Lake districts. All sections depending upon copper should be helped by this German loan. Although the price of wheat has turned recently, the sag would have been far more had this German loan been a failure. With the great amount of wheat being rushed to market and the huge crop, it is surprising that the price has not broken more. The successful flotation of the German loan should increase foreign demand and increase exports and thus distinctly help the grain situation. This especially applies to Canada which is destined to become the world's greatest factor in the production of wheat.

One should not close a comment on the German loan without reference to the men behind it. As I have often stated before, it is men who make prosperity; not money or materials or not even natural resources. The men behind this movement are the finest men that the world produces. I have the honor to be personally acquainted with Mr. Owen D. Young who has general charge of the Reparations. Re-adjustment in Europe during the past few months. Mr. Young was a Boston man, a law partner of Mr. Charles H. Tyler. He then went to New York and is now Chairman of the Board of Directors of the General Electric Company. Also, it was his initiative that formed the Radio Corporation of America, and a number of other very important and far reaching developments. Mr. Young is a man of great ability and combines those two qualities of conservatism and vision in a most wonderful manner. I might also comment on General Dawes, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Gilbert and other men connected with this work. The fact that they are now interested in the bringing about of a real friendly feeling between the European countries, which for years have been fighting, is of itself a tremendous thing. Today's business as indicated on the Babson chart is seven per cent below normal. For the first time for many months I am willing to forecast that this will climb upward before long."

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slender by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets. These little fat reducers are made from the same formula as the famous Marmola Prescription. If too fat, don't wait—go to your druggist now and for one dollar (the same price the world over) procure a box of these tablets. If you prefer you may secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily. No need for tiresome exercise or starvation diet and no unpleasant effects.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS

A Healthy Bladder Acts During The Day
C. N. Shuman, Republic, Ohio, says: "Before taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) I had to get up six or seven times each night. Now I do not get up at all. You may use my name if it would benefit anyone with bladder trouble." Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) increases the action during the day. It cleanses the bladder as Epsom Salts do the bowels driving out foreign matter, neutralizing excess acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "Getting Up Nights." These tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Sayre and Hemphill.

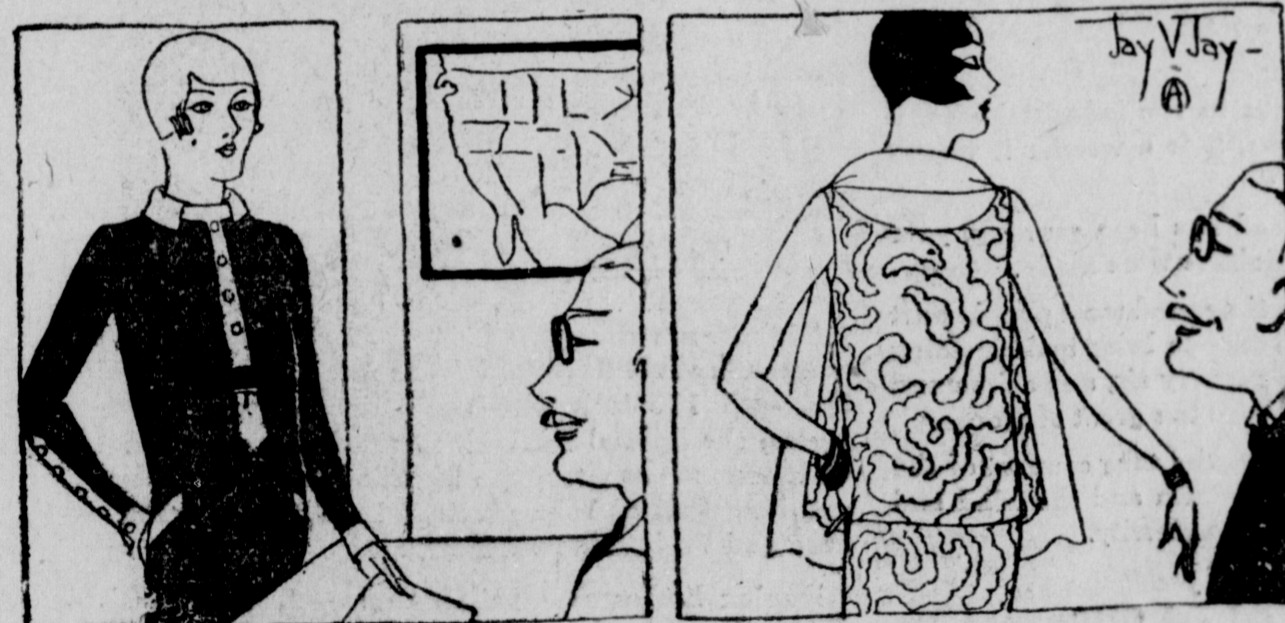

Modish Mitzi—Mitzi Thinks Some Very Simple Styles Smart

By Jay V. Jay

"There is something so simple, so sensible about that dress, my dear," says Dad. Mitzi, of course, never bought it because it is simple or sensible, what woman would? She bought it because of the new collar and vestee front. And it is beltless, which is another reason for Mitzi's choice.

"Perhaps styles are really going to look comfortable," thinks Dad as he summons his secretary, who wears a jersey dress with an overblouse effect. The neck can be worn high or low. The skirt is pleated. Simplicity, itself.

And the earnest young woman Dad summons by buzzer wears a most attractive navy blue gown with collar, cuffs and trimmings of white pique. This bears out Dad's theory that the world is dressing better than ever. And he is very pleased because he thinks he found it out by himself.

That evening Dad told Mitzi of his discovery. "People are acquiring better taste in clothes," he says, "no gew-gaws, you know." "Oh, yes," agrees Mitzi, "oh, yes, tailored things—even evening gowns—are very simple this season." Well, one should be grateful to the season, at least, concludes Dad.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH

An enormous number of people are weak nervous and ailing always complaining and doctoring simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich, red, blood and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

CREATOR OF "NICK" CARTER NOVELS IS CALLED BY DEATH

A glimpse into boyhood days and dreams of adventure was given Xenians with the announcement of the death of Thomas C. Harbaugh, 75, poet of Miami County, Ohio, and celebrated throughout the United States as the author of the "Nick Carter Novels," at the Miami County Infirmary, Tuesday afternoon.

"Nick Carter" was a household word nearly fifty years ago and every youthful Tom, Dick and Harry of that day secretly aspired to rival "Nick's" adventures. While the lads of today get their ideas of heroes from the movies, tales of world flights and true sea adventures, Harbaugh won his popularity among the boys who idealized his fantastic stories of bravery in pioneer days.

Many years ago, Mr. Harbaugh began his series of famous Nick Carter Novels. His work in these novels led him to fame throughout the United States and the name "Nick Carter" and many of the stories about him became popular phrases.

In addition to this most popular work, Mr. Harbaugh became noted for his colloquial poems dealing with the life of Ohio and particularly Miami County and Casttown, the town in which he lived the major portion of his life. Among the most treasured of his works is a "History of Miami County" which is looked upon as a household necessity in his home county.

Mr. Harbaugh had been a paying patient at the Miami County Infirmary near Troy, O., since September 13, 1923, at which time he voluntarily committed himself to the home for care. Since residing at the home, he had written only a few of his characteristic poems of Ohio life, but these few are said to be among the most expressive that have come from his pen.

Mr. Harbaugh is survived by two nephews, Albert Harbaugh, Casttown,

Ohio, and Calvin Harbaugh, Indiana. Funeral services will be held at the home of Albert Harbaugh, Casttown, Friday.

Get Back Your Health as Other Xenia Folks Have Done.

Too many people suffer lame, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late! Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Xenia cases:

John M. Stokesbury, 414 E. Second St., Xenia, says: "When I attempted to straighten after stooping, something caught me across my kidneys. I was laid up for some time. I got Doan's Pills at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store and they cured me."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER Mr. Stokesbury added: "I have had no further occasion to use Doan's Pills."

New Type of C Automobile

It is an open car one moment need of hunting for side curtains in the

A new type of car has stirred the automobile world as has nothing since the abandonment of the "buggy" style of body building.

It is the Studebaker Duplex, so called to indicate that it is an open car one moment, and 30 seconds later it is an enclosed car.

Like all great advances in the industrial arts, it is "so simple in operation, it is a wonder it wasn't thought of before" — — —

Particularly since its need has been growing, year by year, ever since automobiles were made.

Many people all of the time, and most people part of the time, want an open car—to bring to their riding the fresh crispness of the country air, and a free and untrammelled association with the great outdoors.

Yet for these same people, the snug comfort of the closed car, shutting out the storm and the wind and the cold, has been at times a necessity.

Two cars in one

The Studebaker Duplex is both cars in one. Just pull down the roller enclosures concealed in the roof of the car. In 30 seconds the open car has been made an enclosed car.

No hurried efforts to put up curtains; no hunting for the right one while the storm beats in; no mixing them up in the dark; no exposure through holes torn in them while trying to obtain, for the emergency, the protection given by a closed car — — —

Just pull down the roller enclosures giving instant enclosed car effect.

The body is built substantially—sides, corners and roof frame are of steel. The roof has curved steel sides and back; four permanent, steel, U-shaped cross beams, six of them, support the waterproofed, duplex fabric top and its linings. Here is permanent beauty, no sagging tops.

But Studebaker, on which the automobile-using world has come to depend for reliability, would not rest on only one real contribution to the value given the public.

It must give all that a car's utility could devise.

Striking new features

So there are offered three distinct models of cars, to meet each of the three fields of demand—the Standard Six, with 113-inch wheelbase and 50 horsepower motor; the Special Six, with 120-inch wheelbase and 65 horsepower motor; the Big Six, most magnificent and luxurious of its products, with 127-inch wheelbase and 75 horsepower motor.

Duplex bodies are available on each line. In addition, closed models have workmanship and materials and beauty of line so far above the price class of the car, they must be seen to be appreciated.

Of scarcely less importance than the Duplex feature are other improvements such as, automatic ignition system, lighting control on the steering wheel, new location of emergency brake, improved one-piece windshield and many others.

The body lines, steering mechanism, and even the fenders of the new Studebaker were designed especially for genuine balloon tires. Thus the body lines harmonize with grace and beauty hitherto unattained, even by Studebaker.

Come in and see these new cars.

NEGATIVES

Doubts, fears, grudges—the negatives of life—are a poor lot to make up a man's equipment. They are just as helpful as a suit of armor to a swimmer.

What everyone needs is to develop power—power to plan, power to do, power to reap results. The negative attitude toward everything drains a man of his purpose and makes progress impossible.

When the energies of a man's mind are trained to positive thinking, doubts and smallness fall away. Belief is a builder—and fits then for winning.

WILCE SATISFIED WITH SUCCESS OF BUCKEYES TO DATE

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service

Sports Editor

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 30.—Dr. John Wilce, a scholarly soul and just a bit austere, had been telling the writer in his precise way just what men had made a good team at Ohio State in 1924 out of a bad team in 1923. Subsequently, for purposes of accuracy, I asked:

"Just who were these men you esteem?"

"I esteem them all," said he, and glanced over the gridiron where two of his four varsity teams were engaged in a battle.

"Why you big palooka!"

The doctor was speaking. His tone was that of a man who inadvertently swallowed banana oil in place of mayonnaise and a depressing silence fell upon all.

"I've been tell you for a week where to stand on that shift."

The doctor clutched the big palooka by the loose of his jersey, and urgently but not uniformly, showed him where to stand.

"I have a pretty good team," he continued reflectively. "It looks like our best since 1921, when we were beaten out of the conference championship in the last minute of the season. Oh, awful. Let me at him."

They let the doctor at him. The latter was seemingly a very estimable young man, who had just plunged through the center of the line for ten yards.

"Didn't I tell you not to run that way? You were all bent up like a safety pin. When you hit the line, hit it this way."

Dr. Wilce abruptly charged the hapless individual, head up and brushed him right out of his, (the doctor's) path.

He dusted his hands and came back. "My new men, developed this season, have made the Ohio State team what it is," he remarked, conversationally. "They are Dreyer, a guard; Jenkins, a tackle, and Hunt and Karow, backs. My veterans are Young and Watts, centers; Kutler, a guard; Nichols, a tackle; Wilson, an end, and Wendler, a back."

"Cunningham and Gorrill, ends, were 1923 subs; so was Cameron, my quarterback, who is being used as a field director, after the old Harvard system. Klee, who tied Chicago with his field goal, hurt his shoulder early last year, and was out for the season. Karow is my best running back this year although the attack in general might be better."

"But I have a real line, a charging line. They say a team is no stronger than its forward line. Therefore—"

Suddenly he moaned audibly. The attacking team had just scored a touchdown.

"Come back," weary resignation was in his voice.

"Come back to the 20 yard line and try it all over again."

As the doctor was saying, he esteems all of his men. They have made a good record in conference football to date, beating Purdue and getting ties with Chicago and Iowa. They still have games to play with Indiana, Michigan and Illinois.

"If there's any skull cracking to be done, we'll get it then."

That was Wilce's succinct way of sizing up the situation ahead. He is pretty well satisfied with his line, which averages about 190 pounds, but the backfield is extremely light and none too adept, at that. Karow, he regards as his best back but the young man tore a careless cartilage in his knee and won't be ready until the Michigan game. Captain Young at center, also is out with a broken rib but Watts, the 145 pound wildcat, is just as good as ever.

In Cunningham, he has one of the heaviest ends in captivity. He weighs 195 pounds and is reasonably agile for a man of his embonpoint.

Because of their ability to win or tie without undue scoring a local wag has termed the Buckeyes the "hitless wonders," thereby driving Dr. Wilce into a high dudgeon. He seems to think that this is giving his boys the worst of it.

Yet, it is significant that he is using the shift for many of his running plays. This would seem to indicate that his attack needs unnatural aid. In connection with this, he added:

"We miss the forward passing of Stinecomb and 'Hoge' Workman. We have no man who can throw them far down the field, thus opening the way for the short pass. But you can't have everything."

IMPERIALS TO MEET HILLTOP ATHLETICS

The Imperial football eleven is up against the real thing in the piskin line Sunday afternoon, when it meets the Hilltop Athletics, of Columbus in a game at Washington Park.

The Hilltops have amassed an enviable record on the gridiron this season, and according to advance notices have dropped but one engagement this season, that a hard fought contest to the Washington C. H. team by the close score of 6 to 0.

The Imperials have been practicing earnestly for this game, and when they take the field Sunday afternoon, it will be against a team that besides having a heavy line, which has a weight average of 160 pounds, also boasts of a light but speedy back field.

The Imperials, with several practice sessions before them before the day of the game, are putting in some good ticks, in the way of ironing out all the mistakes which have cropped up in previous games, and should be in excellent trim by Sunday.

The Hilltops are said to have one of the best road aggregations in the capital city, and their record shows that they have administered a wallop to two clubs from their own city already this season.

The Imperial management announces there will be another practice session at Washington Park Thursday evening at 7:30 and all members of the squad are urged to be on hand, for what will probably be the stiffest practice of the season in anticipation of one of the hardest games of the season.

PROPOSED CHILD LABOR LAW SCORED AT GRANGE SESSION

The proposed Child Labor Law was declared to be one-sided, and one of the most foolish laws ever put before the public, by J. F. Gordon, of Jamestown, in an address before a combined meeting of Greene County Pomona Grange and Beaver Grange at Alpha, Wednesday.

The proposed law provides that children shall not be put to work until eighteen years of age which is ridiculous, according to Mr. Gordon, who said if they are not taught to work before that time they will never be useful citizens. He cited a number of leading Americans who were earning their living early in life. He declared it ridiculous to have the state and government take charge of the child when it was really up to the parents to judge their child's life.

S. H. Shawhan, county Grange lecturer, gave a report of interviews with candidates, who had presented their platforms to the Grange members, through Mr. Shawhan.

Carl Merrick of Beaver Grange, gave a reading, as did Joseph Smith of Caesarcreek Grange. Mrs. Raymond Tobias, of Beaver Grange sang a solo and Xenia Grange Orchestra furnished the other music.

Mrs. A. L. Barger, Urbana, state superintendent of Juvenile Grange work and only woman member of the State Board of Agriculture, who was scheduled to address the meeting, was unable to be present, on account of illness.

The fifth degree was conferred on eleven candidates, during the day. Dinner was served at noon. The reports of various Granges of the county were given during the business meeting.

A combined meeting of Yellow Springs and Miami Grange will be held at Yellow Springs, the last Wednesday in January.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Truant Soul

By Victor Rousseau

She preceded her up the stairs, carrying an oil lamp. She set it down in Joan's room, and then she seemed to hesitate.

"Miss Wentworth," she said, "the doctor wants us to do everything we can to make you comfortable. There isn't likely to be any work unless some patient comes in. You were not to attend Mrs. Dana, I think?"

"I was told not."

"That's so, Miss Wentworth." The matron's air was a very decided one, and again conveyed the impression of something hidden, which was, further, meant to remain hidden. "The doctor wired me that. I don't suppose he said anything about Mrs. Dana to you? Or—Mr. Myers?"

Her stealthy watchfulness now seemed of ominous portent, and the matron made no attempt to suppress the eagerness with which she awaited Joan's answer.

"No, Doctor Lancaster said nothing," answered the girl.

Then, seeing that the matron was still regarding her doubtfully, she added:

"But is not Doctor Jenkins resident here? I have not seen him yet, you know."

The matron stared at her in astonishment. "Why, Miss Wentworth, that was Doctor Jenkins who drove you up from the station! Didn't you know?" she asked.

"That was Doctor Jenkins?"

"I thought Doctor Lancaster would have told you about him. He's a graduate of Johns Hopkins. Old Doctor Lancaster wanted to build up an institution here where we hill people could work among our own. But the plan fell through. You see, the hospital in Avonmouth got hold of most of the money, and then—there were other difficulties. I don't know about them—I've only been here three years, and Doctor Jenkins wasn't graduated then, and we never pay attention to the gossip of the villagers."

She checked herself hastily, as if she was afraid of compromising herself.

"Doctor Jenkins has given up his life to the work here," she continued. "He lives at Millville, but we hope some time that Doctor Lancaster will build up the place again, if only—if only he—"

There was almost a look of agony on her face, and again she turned her eyes upon Joan's face as if to search out her thoughts. Then, with an abrupt "good night," she turned away. Joan called to her as she was leaving the room. "Mrs. Fraser," she said, "I understood there was a patient here besides Mrs. Dana."

The matron turned slowly round. "There was the boy who left this morning," she said inquiringly.

"But I understood from Doctor Lancaster—at least, he didn't tell me in so many words, but he gave me to understand that there was a special case here, requiring care and sympathy."

The matron stared at her. "No, there's nobody," she said. "Nobody except—"

Suddenly she uttered a convulsive sound, and, putting her hands over her face, ran from the room. Joan heard her stumbling down the corridor outside as if she had gone blind.

She stood irresolute in her room. Her sleepiness was gone; she was afraid, and she seemed to have got out of her depth. It had begun with John Lancaster's strange behavior in his office the evening before. She had not been able then to reconcile him in any way with the Lancaster whom she had seen, smug, self-satisfied and vain, in the operating room, the bully who kept the nurses in agitation and fear, though he was the traditional John Lancaster of whom she had heard. Then there was the man Myers, equally strange; and the matron. Some mystery was at the heart of it all; and Joan was the more afraid because the reason for her fear was unknown to her.

Her sleepiness was gone. She stood beside the window, looking out into the darkness. A whippoorwill was calling monotonously among the pines; here and there among the hills a solitary light was twinkling. The air was cool and balsam scented. It was like the dearly remembered days at home. But in the heart of that peace was apprehension.

Looking back now, Joan thought that she had undertaken a rash and extraordinary adventure in coming so far from Avonmouth alone, and at the proposal of a man whose reputation was an evil one. She would go home on the morrow.
